Admires Oscar

Admiration speaks for itself in the face of David J. Willett (right), owner and publisher of Associated Newspapers Inc., as he holds Oscar shown him by Matthew Yurichich. Honor came for Yurichich's artistic endeavors in the movie, "Logan's Run." Willett met Yurichich at Ford Motor Company's unveiling ceremonies for its new small luxury car, the Versailles, in Los Angeles the day following the Academy Award presentations. Yurichich currently is lending his artistic talents to a forthcoming film, "A Close Encounter of A Third Kind."

Unsung heroes

If it wasn't for these men and their fellow workers in the pressroom, ANP readers wouldn't be reading their favorite newspaper. For efforts in keeping the presses rolling, Ken Lindemann was promoted from pressman to pressroom foreman and Bob Skwirsk from pressman's helper to pressman. They're happy or they wouldn't be smiling!

Huron Twp's annual meeting forces new budget changes

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

The fiscal year for Huron Township may have come in like a lamb last year, but it certainly went out like a roaring lion Saturday during the Township Board's annual public budget hearing. Emotions ran so high that police officers were forced to escort a man from the room and then took Treasurer Richard Sullivan outdoors where he was given oxygen and taken home after becoming ill. Supervisor John Puskar summoned officers David Hyska and John Maier, asking them to eject Marty Chamberlain of Allen Park after he refused to heed several warnings to sit down and wait to be heard. During the course of his verbal tirade against high taxes, Puskar said the man climbed on the back of a chair. After officers had talked to him, Chamberlain was permitted to reenter the hearing room in Hannan Road Elementary School. He complained that last year's reassessment of property resulted in $7,500 in taxes being levied against a "centennial farm" owned by his parents in Huron Township at 22341 Bell Road. He said his parents earned only $15,000 per year. A check made Monday by Puskar and Clark Sandra Rhodes disclosed that a Basil Chamberlain at that address owned .62 acres on which the state equalized valuation was listed at $14,420 for both house and land. The clerk said taxes for fiscal year 1977-78 would run approximately $700 for the Bell Road land and property. She said it was possible the elder Chamberlain could own other property than that shown on Bell Road. A sizable turnout was on hand to air complaints against a one percent tax collection fee and a $1.52 fee each month for garbage collection proposed for the 1977-78 budget by Puskar. Following the discussion, it became evident that the consensus of the audience was against the two measures, forcing Puskar to "rework the budget." He explained that the $920,000 budget for fiscal year 1977-78 was lower than the $1,112,000 for the previous year because he had proposed deferring revenue from uncollected taxes for December 1977 until March 1978. He said he would prefer basing the annual budget on collected taxes for that fiscal year and not projecting a budget based on taxes to be collected in the future. He explained that under his authority he could assess a one percent fee for collecting taxes which would generate about $22,000 in revenue. The garbage collection fee would bring in approximately $43,000 more for twice per month pickups. With both proposals not to township residents liking, Puskar said he had no choice but to re-do the budget, resulting in the cutting of expenditures in some areas.

All in a year's work

Huron Township has had a lot of quiet moments but Saturday certainly wasn't one of them. One man had to be bodily ejected from the township's annual budget meeting while Treasurer Richard F. Sullivan had to be given oxygen and taken home after becoming ill.

Conducting the meeting were the elected officials, including Trustee Ronald Tabor (from left), Trustee A.J. Haener, Supervisor John Puskar, Clerk Sandra Rhodes, Trustee William Geierman, Secretary Alice McGraw and Treasurer Richard F. Sullivan.

Romulus 'Theme Park' is slated

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Writer

Receiving unconditional support from the Romulus City Council, Century World Inc., last week unveiled plans for a $200 million park, arena and convention center.

The proposed arena-convention-theme park would be built by Century World Inc. on a 600-acre parcel of land across I-94 from Metropolitan International Airport. The plans were announced on March 29 before the Romulus City Council which gave the developers its blessings and unanimously voted to establish an Economic Development Corporation to help expedite the development. Plans for the land development, were revealed by Donald Cox, an investor-developer from Milford, Mich., who represented the developers. He presented details of what Century World had on its mind for the proposed site.

Supported by feasibility date, evidence of financial commitment, Cox, and his planning, legal and financial aides asserted the plan wouldn't cost Romulus taxpayers anything but rather "would contribute an estimated $100 million annually to the community's economy, with consequent important tax and employment benefits."

"We arrived at the $100 million figure by multiplying four times $25 million to account for the ripple effect as the large new cash flow generated by the development worked its way down through the employment and business economy," Cox said.

The site of the proposed century world project lies along I-94 at the Merriman road exit and runs all the way north to Ecorse road. Portions of the land already are occupied by national-chain hotel-motel facilities, five in all. At 600 acres, the site represents almost a square mile.

The complex would include: ● An 18,000-seat arena suitable for hockey, basketball and other events within 30 to 45 minutes of 70 percent of the sports fans in the metropolitan area by actual analysis by feasibility experts. Century World spokesmen said the arena and the rest of the complex would attract much out-of-state business through the airport, but in addition would be convenient for Ohioans and outstate Michigan people via freeways linked with I-94.

● A 150-acre theme park planned and operated by Economic Research Associates (ERA), of Los Angeles, the nation's largest planners and operators of theme parks. ERA was planning and management consultant for Disney World in Florida along with virtually all other major theme parks around the country.

● Two hotels with 600 rooms to add to the present stock in the area.

● A 40-acre office complex for national and international, as well as local, companies oriented to quick airport access and relations with the entire Detroit industrial complex via freeway and fast surface arteries.

● A well-founded shopping center at the north end along Ecorse Road.

'John Long Day' help is needed

Whoever said the time for heroes is past, hasn't visited Romulus lately. Romulus has a genuine candidate who recently distinguished himself in the long-anticipated basketball match-up between the University of Michigan and the University of Detroit during the NCAA regional playoffs.

Although the U. of D. lost the exciting game, 20-year-old John Long scored 25 points and in giving his best, gave Romulus something to be proud of.

Now City officials, Associated Newspapers and members of the community are seeking to honor that kind of determination, by promoting a "John Long Day" to coincide with the conclusion of Romulus' first week-long Michigan Week celebration.

However, rather than merely staging a few official presentations, the Romulus Civic League has offered to host a party, complete with music, refreshments and guest celebrity appearances on Saturday, May 21, "Youth Day", at the Civic League Hall located at 11495 Wahram Road, Romulus.

The proceeds from the construction of a small basketball court and play area to be built on Civic League property and be maintained by its' members.

Currently, residents of the area have no place to play or shoot baskets, since the basketball apparatus was removed from the area's elementary school playground.

Long, a "graduate" of those courts, is an example of the value and need for such facilities.

Councilman William Oakley, a sponsor of a recent City Council resolution to honor John Long, said the idea of a local fund raiser, "is beautiful, in that people tend to always look to the federal government for money; whereas money earned this way will be truly appreciated, with no strings attached."

Unfortunately, the cost of even the most modest facilities is more than the Civic League can presently fund, and they need your help.

If you can donate your time, money or talent, please contact this paper and we will inform the newly-formed "John Long Day Committee" of your willingness to help.

This invitation is extended to individuals as well as to civic organizations, commercial businesses or local industries.

Hold-up duo nabbed in act

It was an unlucky day for two young Romulus men who allegedly decided to rob a Clark Gas Station on Middlebelt Road in Romulus recently.

They picked the wrong station at the wrong time, and ended up walking into the arms, and handcuffs, of two Wayne County Sheriff Department officers.

The alleged robbers just happened to pick as their target a gas station that had, moments before, accidentally triggered its own silent alarm that rang the Sheriff's Department.

How were they to know, when they allegedly walked in the door of the Clark station with a gun, that a sheriff's patrol car was already on its way?

According to Sgt. Ronald Brown of the Sheriff's Department, when the alarm came in a car was immediately dispatched to the gas station. However, as a double check, the dispatcher called the station. Many times, an alarm will be accidentally set off at a gas station, party store or other business.

The quick telephone call to the gas station by the officer on duty revealed that the alarm was an accident.

Officers Gary Lehman and Jerry Billiter, on their way to the gas station, were informed by radio that it was a false alarm, but standard procedure at the Sheriff's Department is to send a car anyway. The officers continued on, minus the siren and flashers.

When they arrived, they met one suspect just walking out the door, and found the other inside the station, standing over the gas attendant who was laying face down on the floor.

They allegedly walked in to rob the station right after the attendant assured the Sheriff's dispatcher that there was no robbery in progress.

The attendant said about $48 in bills and change was stolen. The robbers had allegedly told him they had a gun, and had forced him to lay on the floor, pulling his Clark station hat over his face.

One of the suspects is a 16-year-old youth, who will be dealt with by juvenile authorities. The other man, Glenn D. Herring, 21, was arraigned that day, and had a preliminary examination on the charge of armed robbery last week. He was examined in 34th District Court by Judge James B. Stone, and bound over to Circuit Court for trial. The original $25,000 bond was lowered to $5,000 cash bond, and the suspect is out on bond awaiting trial, according to officers.

EASTER

Celebration of the past, for the future

By MAUREEN RADEMACHER
ANP Staff Writer

Easter is the most joyous of all Christian holidays, because it celebrates not only the Resurrection of Jesus Christ after his Crucifixion and death, but the promise of eternal life for all people.

In that way, the celebration not only is in remembrance of a past event, but a celebration of the future for all people who believe in God.

Easter also has come to symbolize the beginning of spring, the reawakening of the earth after the winter season, and the end of the Lenten season. In fact, many of the customs followed by modern families on Easter have their origins in pagan spring festivals.

Perhaps the most obvious of these Easter traditions are the Easter eggs and the rabbit who delivers them. Both are universal symbols of fertility, symbols of life and creation.

Spring has long been a time to celebrate re-birth and life, which also is the essence of the Easter observance.

Other folklore credit the popularity of eggs at Eastertime to the fact that for many years eggs were a forbidden food during Lent. Therefore they were a big part of the Easter meal that ends the Lenten time of penance. Decorating them signifies the end of the penitential season and beginning of joyful celebration. Egg decoration is customary throughout the world.

The Easter Rabbit earned the reputation as the one delivering the gaily colored eggs, in addition to eggs given as gifts between people.

The rabbit also is the traditional escort of the Germanic goddess Ostara, who supposedly gave the spring festival "Easter" its name.

Sunrise services are common in religious celebrations, another ancient custom that may have had its roots in the belief that the sun danced on Easter morning in honor of the Resurrection. Christians rose early to see the event, and to this day sunrise services are popular in the United States and Europe.

The Easter Parade supposedly dates back thousands of years to when Constantine commanded his council to bedeck themselves in their finest robes and parade through the countryside in honor of the Resurrection. To this day, Easter is a time of wearing at least one item of new clothing, a custom thought to ensure good luck throughout the year.

Lamb always has been a traditionally popular food at Easter, although in recent years that meat has been substituted with other foods, such as cake, pastry, butter or sugar, made in the shape of a lamb for table decoration. Spiced meat now is a popular Easter dish, in addition to eggs. The lamb custom probably originated because of the lamb's association with fertility, as well as with the designation of the risen Christ as the "Lamb of God".

Many families and ethnic groups have created their own customs for Easter meals and celebrations, making it a holy day significant in religious and sectarian tradition.

It is a holiday, however, that has not been commercialized to the point of bypassing its original meaning, the celebration of Christian life over death.

Stewart misses press conference

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

In all the excitement of last week's press conference by developer Don Cox, who announced a $200 million fun park, Romulus Mayor James Stewart was conspicuous by his absence.

The Romulus Roman received a telegram stating there would be a press conference Thursday morning with Cox and Mayor Stewart discussing the 600-acre Disneyland-like project proposed in the area west of Merriman Road, between I-94 and Ecorse Road.

However, when the press conference was held, Stewart was obviously absent. Instead Beverly McAnally, Romulus councilwoman was at Cox's side. When asked if Stewart was for the project, Cox answered that he thought Stewart was, but didn't explain the absence of the mayor from his press conference.

It's 'far-fetched'

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

"I believe the figure of 90 days is far-fetched."

That's the reaction of Romulus Industrial Coordinator Hyle Carmichael to the statement that a $200 million convention center and Disneyland-like park may break ground in Romulus in three months. The proposed 600-acre project, sponsored by Century World Inc., could break ground in 90 days, according to developer Don Cox, spokesman for the group.

Carmichael, who served as Romulus' first mayor from 1970 to 1972 and was appointed to his present job by Mayor James Stewart in 1975, welcomes the idea but wants more information.

"There's nobody in Romulus that's against a development that will be an asset to the City of Romulus," he said. "But at this time several of the land owners in the described area say they have not optioned their land for this project."

"If what the owners tell me is true, it appears doubtful that Mr. Cox has control of the 600 acres west of Merriman and south of Ecorse Road, that he claims to have."

But even more important in the way of blocking a "90-day" ground breaking timetable is the needed zoning changes, according to Carmichael.

"The city is not against any such development but until they come up with a site plan, there's very little action it can take," he said. "We want more facts. So far, almost all of it has been in verbal terms."

The industrial coordinator, who has had several talks with Cox, added: "The city is receptive to all good projects, but in this case, we just don't have enough necessary facts on which to proceed."

"I believe zoning changes are necessary in the proposed area and a figure of 90 days is far-fetched. I wouldn't even want to venture a guess as to how long it might take. In any zoning changes, there are public hearings and procedures that take time to carry out."

Carmichael said the City Council has asked the city attorney to draw up an ordinance for their consideration to form an Economic Development Corporation.

"If the council passes it, it will take time to set up and it's very hard to set time limits on these things," Carmichael said. "The government works rather slowly."

However, Carmichael insisted the city is eager to help. "We are not taking a negative attitude on this project. But we want to see something a lot more concrete and specific information before we'll be able to proceed."

Stewart, his secretary, Bonnie Lozier, and Public Information Officer Jay Young all said they were informed the press conference would be Friday morning.

"I was planning to be there Friday," Stewart said, "but they held it on Thursday. I don't know why they deliberately told us Friday when they planned it for Thursday."

Stewart when asked if Cox controlled 93 percent of the proposed land chosen for the development, said: "I am not aware of what options have been worked out between Mr. Cox and land owners in the area. This is a private matter in which the city is not involved."

As to whether it was properly zoned, Stewart answered: "Approximately half is zoned for a regional center and half single family residences."

Have detailed plans been presented by anyone to the city?

"The law required at this stage that a public hearing be held," the mayor said. "This we have complied with. After the formation of an Economic Development Corporation (EDC) then plans presumably will be presented. There is no requirement for specific plans at this point, and none have been presented."

If an EDC is formed, will members of the Board of Directors be chosen from Century World Inc.?

"If the City Council adopts an ordinance creating an economic development corporation, my staff will advise me of all qualified people," Stewart replied. "It is impossible for me to state now who might be appointed to such a board. We want a stable, ongoing corporation which has the interests of the City of Romulus as its primary consideration."

Asked if it is true that the proposed complex will not cost the Romulus taxpayers anything and that it will bring in $100 million in tax revenue, Stewart said: "According to Act 338, under which the project will be financed, the only obligation of the city is to create an EDC. There is no stipulation requiring the city to expend any funds."

Stewart, in answering a query about environmental impact of such a complex, said: "The city is very conscious of the delicate balance that must be maintained with development and green space. We would want any development to be based on sound principles of ecology. However, Romulus presently is about 30 percent developed, leaving large areas undeveloped."

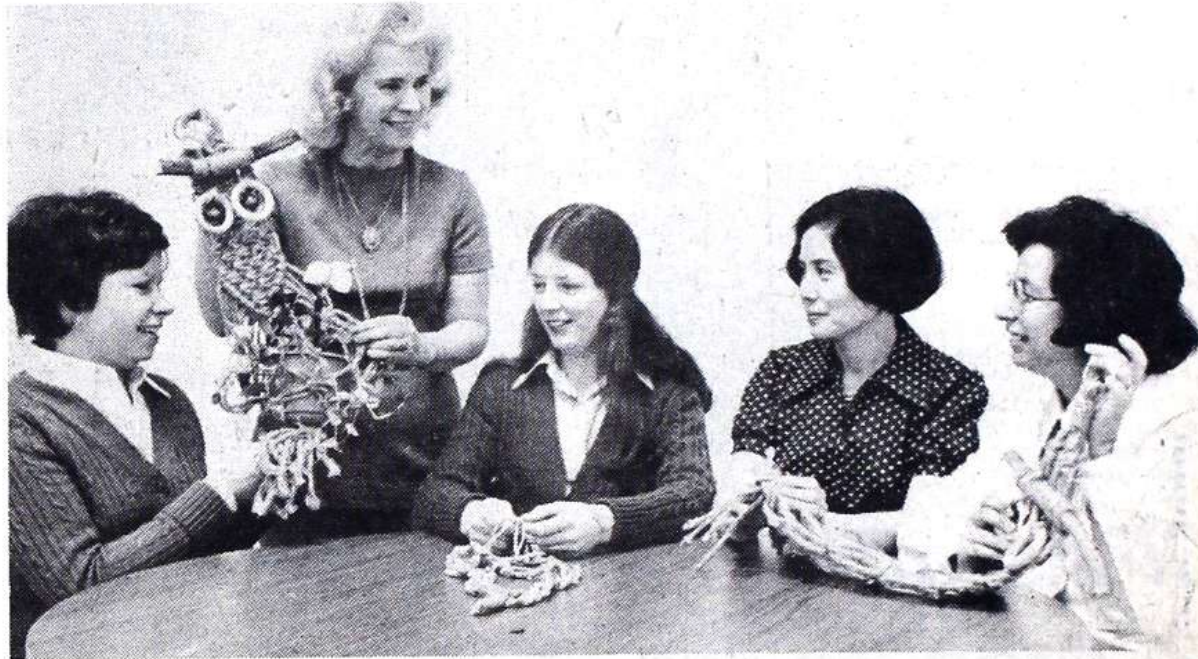

Cox claims his proposed development would provide 7,000 jobs for area residents. "There undoubtedly would be Romulus citizens employed in such an undertaking. However, it is impossible to know how many. We don't even know what occupations would be involved or what skills would be needed. I wouldn't even want to hazard a guess as to numbers."

If Romulus is so suited for large-scale development, why haven't other developers approached the city with proposals?

"There have been several proposals made to the city in the past several years," Stewart said. "But for reasons of feasibility or financing, none have ever materialized. To respond in detail, I would have to have specific examples."

"Under the past administration, several proposals were brought forward, but for some unknown reasons, they never were realized."

With Mrs. McAnally and Stewart running for mayor in September's election, observers are watching their respective positions in this proposed development.

Developing interests

'Be Y's People' — YWCA says

Touting the theme, "Be Y's People...Join the YWCA," the YWCA of Western Wayne County currently is conducting its annual membership campaign in Romulus and nine other surrounding communities.

Main base of operations is the YWCA of Western Wayne County located at 26279 Michigan Avenue in Inkster.

A partial list of community services, according to Mary Willoughby, area director for Romulus, is: Y-Women's clubs in apartment complexes, churches, neighborhood centers; creative crafts, speakers, field trips; Y-Teen clubs for high school students; YW clubs for junior high school students; singles dances for adults 30 and over; group sessions for potential junior high and high school drop-outs; tutoring for young and adults getting citizenship papers, cultural enrichment programs for elementary students; buddies program for single-parent children; convalescent care center clubs for women in nursing homes; health care workshops; volunteer program at pediatric and adult ward of Wayne County General Hospital; help line for adults with social security, food stamp and welfare concerns.

Special programs available include duplicate bridge, self-awareness workshops, parent effectiveness sessions, driver's education and low-cost preschool care nursery programs in five locations.

Mrs. Willoughby said the Michigan Avenue location offers special classes in exercise, discotheque, slim and trim, crocheting, swimming, painting, folk guitar, drawing and painting, ballroom dance, macrame, decoupage, cake decorating, tot's art, belly dancing, knitting, paper tote, tap and jazz and yoga.

In the Romulus community, members of MAC's Y-women of the Meadows, Applewood and Cinnamon Ridge neighborhoods — meet from 1 to 3 p.m. each Tuesday at the Romulus Neighborhood Center on LeRoy near Harrison. Included in list of special projects are bringing in resource speakers on nutrition, metric system, self-awareness training and self defense, Mrs. Willoughby said.

Wellesley Y women meet from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. each Tuesday in the clubhouse of the Wellesley Town House Apartments. Joint brunches are held occasionally with MAC'S Y - women.

Other Romulus YWCA functions are bi-monthly meeting of Y-Teen Club (girls), meeting of Oakbrooke Teen Club for junior high and high school boys and girls in Oakbrooke Club House each Thursday night, MAC'S Teens at Romulus Neighborhood Center hold annual 6-week summer program, preschool nursery four mornings each week at Romulus Community Methodist Church, Oakbrooke preschool group meets twice weekly for 3- and 4-year-olds, and beginning, advanced beginners and intermediate swimming classes for all ages through adults at Ramada Inn.

For further information on either joining the YWCA or sponsoring a needy individual, call Mary Willoughby at 561-4110.

Ground breaking for fire hall set

The second major ground breaking ceremony in two weeks will take place at 10 a.m. tomorrow on the South side of Eureka Road between Middle Belt and Harrison roads, with the inauguration of Romulus' fourth fire station.

Ground breaking for the nearly $500,000 facility follows a similar ceremony held two weeks ago for the 34th District Courthouse also to be built by the Pond Construction Co. next to the library at the Civic Center.

The $450,958 for the fire station and the nearly $1 million for the courthouse were made available through federal grants obtained through the Romulus Community Development Department.

Stated to become the future headquarters for the Romulus Fire Department, the 7,683-square foot fire hall will be complete in every respect.

Starting with a large lobby, the station will contain two big storage areas, administrative offices, a complete kitchen, study and work rooms, laundry and dormitory, plus a 74-foot apparatus bay which will house two fully-equipped fire engines.

Fire Chief John Wilhide said the building is designed for the day when Romulus will have a non-volunteer fire department.

Following completion, the station will house 13 volunteer fire fighters to service the city's growing southeast side.

Mayor James C. Stewart will officiate at the ceremony, to be witnessed by City Council members, elected officials, fire department personnel and representatives from the Romulus GM-Allison Diesel plant, manufacturers of the engines for the two fire trucks.

Following the brief observance, those in attendance will go to the Civic Center for a dedication ceremony and demonstration of three new fire trucks, recently acquired by the City.

On display will be two 1976 "quick-attack" 4-wheel-drive vehicles, designed to pump 300 gallons of water per minute and go places ordinary vehicles could never reach.

Manufactured by Dodge, the $25,000 trucks can climb freeway embankments or traverse open terrain, two requirements especially pertinent to Romulus.

Chief Wilhide also promises a water pumping demonstration by a newly-purchased $118,000 "century" pumper, which can squirt 1,500 gallons of water per minute, and is guaranteed to bring the morning's festivities to a "spectacular finale."

The ceremony and demonstration are open to the public.

According to Otterbacher

Bill would trim some electric rates

Grand Rapids Sen. John R. Otterbacher has introduced legislation, designed to lower electric rates for low and moderate residential consumption while mandating higher rates for those using large amounts of electricity.

Otterbacher said his proposed measure totally restructures the rate system used by Michigan's public utilities.

According to the Grand Rapids Democrat, his legislation also would provide reduced rates for commercial and industrial use outside "peak load" periods, when demand is at its highest.

Otterbacher said both the residential (lifeline) and commercial (peak load) pricing systems would represent a significant departure from current pricing policy, which "essentially penalizes low and moderate electricity customers by passing on the increased production costs made necessary by the excesses of high use customers."

Otterbacher explained: "Our current rate structure made sense years ago when the per unit cost of energy actually decreased as electrical production increased. But those days are long gone. Today the increased cost of fuel and the skyrocketing capital expenditures involved in electricity production mean that the price per unit of electricity increases as the demand increases."

Otterbacher pointed out that the demand for electricity in Michigan has been doubling every seven to 10 years in recent decades and that "failure to reform the existing rate structure now will mean that we will go from one financial crisis to another in the utility industry in the coming decades."

"And each crisis assuredly will result in new price hikes for Michigan's utility customers," he added.

Under Otterbacher's proposal, the lowest residential rate would go to the "lifeline" block of 500 kilowatt hours per month needed to meet the essential uses of a household (lighting, refrigerator, water, heating, etc.). Monthly consumption beyond that "lifeline" block of 500 kilowatt hours would be priced at increasingly higher rates.

According to Otterbacher: "This would ensure low cost energy to virtually all low quantity users, who tend to be low and middle income families and senior citizens. It also would provide an incentive to energy conservation for those who tend to overuse luxury items."

For commercial and industrial customers, Otterbacher's proposal would result in reduced rates for those who would spread their electrical usage across "non-peak load" periods, thus reducing the need to build costly additional generating plants. Otterbacher pointed out that construction of new generating plants almost always reflects the need to meet rising peak load usage.

Citing Ford Foundation and PIRGIM studies indicating a generally inverse relationship between labor force employment and energy consumption, Otterbacher said: "Reduction in the building of capital-intensive generating plants should go a long way toward freeing up much needed capital for labor-intensive expansion in the private sector. Thus, by reforming our current rate structure, we could not only reduce the electrical need to build costly additional generating plants, Otterbacher pointed out that construction of new generating plants almost always reflects the need to meet rising peak load usage."

Citing Ford Foundation and PIRGIM studies indicating a generally inverse relationship between labor force employment and energy consumption, Otterbacher said: "Reduction in the building of capital-intensive generating plants should go a long way toward freeing up much needed capital for labor-intensive expansion in the private sector. Thus, by reforming our current rate structure, we could not only reduce the electrical costs for 80 percent of Michigan's residents, but also create much-needed jobs for Michigan's unemployed."

"We can't really lose by enacting this sort of reform. At best, we can reduce the wasteful consumption of electrical energy and the accompanying pollution costs while freeing up capital for the creation of new jobs in Michigan.

"At worst, this sort of graduated pricing will ensure that any increase in energy use generates an accompanying increase in the revenues needed to build new, increasingly costly production facilities. Thus, stability in the utility industry is assured without regular across-the-board price hikes."

"Either way, we will provide relatively low cost electrical energy for the vast majority of Michigan's residents who are low or moderate energy consumers," he concluded.

The Otterbacher bill contains exemptions for homes using electrical heat and those relying on electricity for agricultural purposes.

Churches to join in service

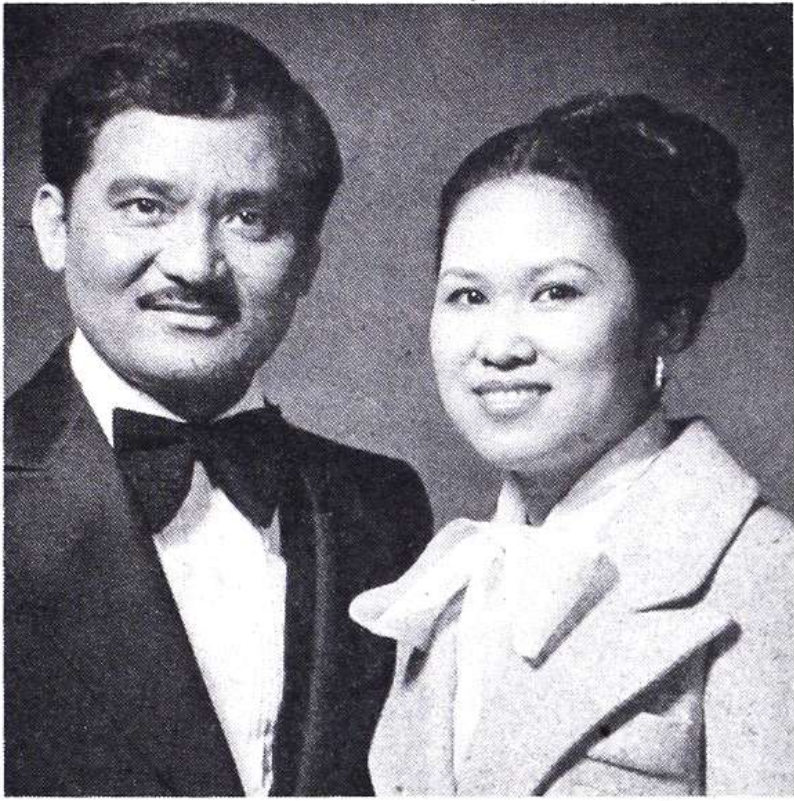

The theme of a joint 1½-hour Good Friday service, to be held at the Bethany Baptist Church of Belleville, will center around "Hope: God's Answer to Confession".

The 1 p.m. service at the church, located at 810 E. Huron River Drive, is sponsored by the Berean Baptist Church, pastor H. Franklin Miller; Bethany Baptist Church, pastor John Losen; Emmanuel Baptist Church, pastor Brian Fujii; Missionary Church, pastor Michael Moser; and Trinity Baptist Church of Ypsilanti, pastor Charles Lester.

In the first half hour of the service, there will be congregational singing and special music, with Scripture and prayer, by Berean Church. The message, "I Thirst", will be given by The Rev. Fujii.

The second half hour segment of the service will include sacred music by The Rev. and Mrs. Jemon Alparaque of the Republic of the Philippines.

The final half hour of the service will include congregational singing and special music, with Scripture and prayer, by the Missionary Baptist Church. The Rev. Lester will deliver the message, "Hope in the Living Water".

CPAs offer suggestions to prepare for '77 taxes

As millions of Americans hurry to meet the April 15 income tax deadline, overworked professional tax advisers are taking time from their long work days to offer tax suggestions for next year.

The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants (CPA's) has drafted a list of steps that will make paying next year's taxes easier, not only by simplifying return preparation, but also minimizing the amount of taxes owed.

It is called simply tax planning, the CPA organization said, and involves steps corporations and wealthy individuals have followed for years. Now, with everybody's tax bite swollen by inflation, almost anyone can benefit from arranging his financial affairs so as to minimize the tax consequence.

The CPAs' suggestions are:

(1) Get your records in order. Good records are essential for preparing your return and also to prove its correctness. Remember, the IRS can assess taxes within three years after your return is filed (six years if more than 25 percent of the gross income is omitted).

(2) When travel expenses are to be deducted, records are especially important. Be prepared to show when and where you traveled, the business purpose of the trip, and the cost of the travel. Documentation for foreign travel are even more stringent.

(3) In setting up a savings or investment plan, consider tax protected programs, such as tax-free municipal bonds or tax-protected retirement plans.

(4) If you have business dealings with relatives, protect your business-expense deduction by making everything formal and by changing the going rates for interest and rentals. If you lend a brother-in-law money, for example, draw up a note with a realistic interest rate and a specified repayment schedule.

(5) If you contribute to charity something of value other than money, arrange to have it appraised to protect your tax deduction. If the item is of great value, get professional advice; it may be better for tax purposes to make special arrangements for the transfer of ownership.

(6) Because of the complexities in the tax laws, a great many taxpayers have more taxes than they owe withheld from their paychecks, thereby getting a refund at the end of the year. If you like the refund so much you don't mind giving Uncle Sam and interest-free loan, that's fine. Otherwise, see your employer about adjusting the withholding rate to bring it more in line with the taxes you actually will owe.

(7) Watch the income of dependents other than your child who is under 19 or a student. If such a dependent's income rises to a point where your claim of an exemption might be threatened and some of that income is from investments, you might want to ask the dependent to re-invest in tax-exempt bonds, the interest on which is not included in gross income.

(8) If you suffer a casualty loss (from fire, storm or theft) establish proof that the sudden, unexpected event did occur, and that it caused a loss to you in excess of $100. If it's a theft, report it in writing to the police. Take photographs. If you don't act at once to document your deduction, it may be too late.

(9) If any financial dealing, especially investments, tax consequences should rarely be the primary consideration, but they should never be ignored. Promising opportunities can turn sour because of the tax effects.

The Michigan Association of CPA's said tax planning might be summarized in a few words: In all business or financial activities, think about the tax consequences.

History lesson

Black History Week was very special in Kathy Gray's first grade class at Rawsonville Elementary School. The teacher taught the students about the important part black Americans played in the development of our country. In studying black history, Mrs. Gray had the children make African block-printed booklets, study African folktales, hear records and watch films. They studied one unit called "People are Colorful" — showing the children how "melanin"

Students honored for U-M studies

Five Belleville residents were recognized for their undergraduate academic record at the March 25 annual Honors Convocation at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Students were honored for their academic records equal to at least half A's and B's for two terms—one for new students — while some were named James B. Angell Scholars for maintaining an all-A record for two or more consecutive terms as undergraduates or William J. Branstrom Prize recipients for being in the top 5 percent of their class. Class honors went to Dane B. Davids of 39100 Judd Road, Mark E. Fogarty of 48520 Ormond, Kymberly L. Hattaway of 12109 Ryznar, and Michael A. Humphrey of 25082 Sumpter Road. Dennis R. Lochrie of 1125 E. Huron River Drive was both an Angell scholar and class honor recipient.

County guarantees hearings on state's prison proposal

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has assured that public hearings will be held, if the state formally proposes location of a state penal institution on county-owned land near Northville.

The county board has delayed consideration of a resolution opposing the penal institution because no proposal has been received from the state as yet.

The resolution was referred back to the board's public works committee with a stipulation that public hearings be held after the anticipated state proposal is received.

Commissioners Mary E. Dumas (R-Livonia) and Royce E. Smith (D-Belleville), sponsors of the resolution, opposed sending the resolution back to the committee whose members unanimously had recommended adoption of the resolution by the board.

Approximately 100 Northville-area residents and officials attended the board meeting to show their opposition to the location of a state correctional facility on the grounds of the now-unused Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon Road north of Five Mile in Northville Township.

County Board Chairman John Barr said a proposal from the state is expected to be received within a couple of weeks.

Prior to the board meeting Barr urged in letters to the 26 other commissioners that the board not take an official position at this time because "it would be presumptuous to reject a plan prior to presentation".

"We must keep reasonable and courteous rapport with the State of Michigan," Barr wrote. "We deal with them regularly and we receive reasonable and courteous treatment."

After the Board members voted 15-9 to send the resolution back to committee, Barr commented:

"This in no wise commits this Board of Commissioners to a penal institution on that property. It commits us to an open mind as to the use of that land."

In his letter to his colleagues, Barr stated: "We always can reject specific ideas later, but as responsible representatives of the people we must hear any reasonable offer put to us."

Commissioner Conrad L. Mallett (D-Detroit), who made the motion to refer the matter back to committee, specified that public hearings be held, if a proposal for a correctional facility is received from the state.

Commissioner Smith, urging that the resolution be adopted, said "that about half the township's 18 square miles of land already is taken up by non-taxable public institutions — Northville State Hospital, Detroit House of Correction and Hawthorne Center for Human Development. He said area residents are "very much concerned" about "walk-aways" from those institutions.

"The people are only opposed to penal institutions. They are not against any other use of that property," Smith added.

Commissioner Dumas charged that a penal institution on that site "could stand in the way of further commercial and residential development of that area."

Will they try again?

What happens now will tell the story

The revelation of Supervisor Patricia Cullin of Van Buren Township, that her appointed Compensation Commission had been improperly formed, has caused Van Buren elected officials to lose the chance to gain the pay raise they so ardently sought.

Supervisor Cullin stated last Thursday, that because the board had published the required legal notice, but referenced the wrong public act number in that notice, the decision had now been made to throw out the entire pay raise proceedings, with the concurrence of the Township Attorney.

We applaud this decision of Pat Cullin's. It should be pointed out that the Supervisor took that action even after the Township Attorney had informed her of possible alternatives. While this Newspaper took exception to the pay raise recommendations made by the Van Buren Compensation Commission, and with the method chosen by the Van Buren Board of Trustees to make the citizens of that community aware of their intentions, we feel that the action taken by Supervisor Cullin to correct a bad situation, came quickly and positively, and is a credit to her and the office which she holds.

But the real question has not been addressed directly by Pat Cullin or the other members of the Van Buren Board of Trustees.

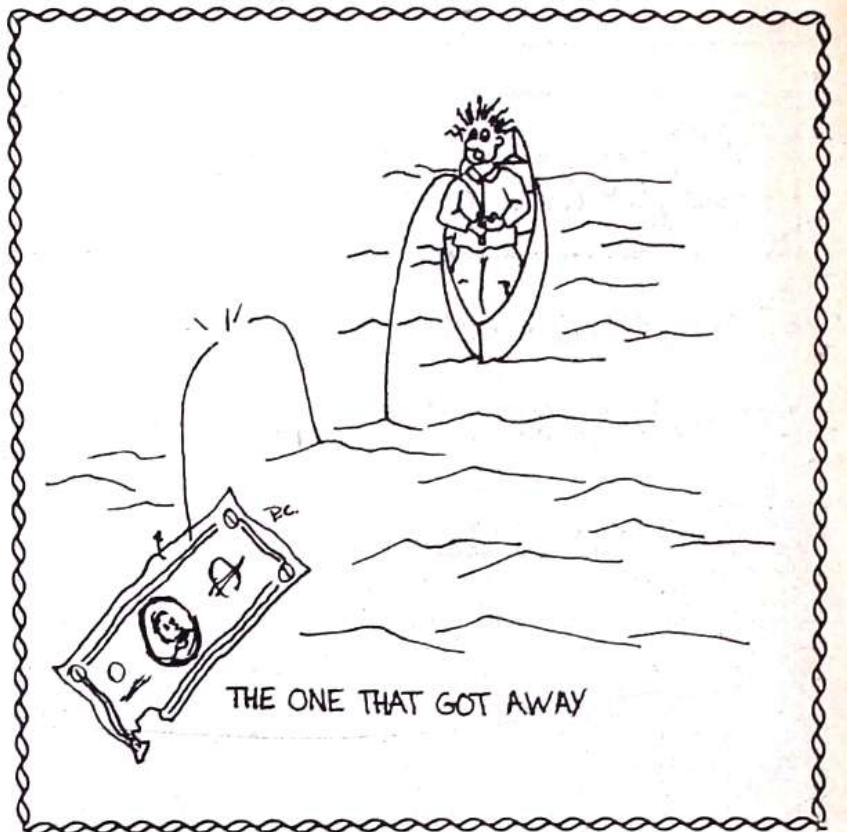

Yes, the pay raise issue has been resolved for this year, but what about next time?

Will there again be an effort by the citizen's elected representatives to quietly sneak through a pay increase on the basis of the recommendations of some future pay board?

Will the overtaxed residents of Van Buren again be forced to storm the gates of township hall in order to make their elected officials more responsive to their wishes?

We hope not. We hope that reason will prevail, and lessons will be learned as the result of last week's events.

We owe his victims

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Time is running out on 11-year-old Timothy King's murderer.

The police know it.

"We think we're on the right track," said Jerry Tobin, Birmingham Police Chief. "We know more about him than we did two months ago." And the murderer knows it, too.

Although a psychopathic killer, he realizes that the very nature of his hideous crimes unite communities against him; that society won't and can't rest until he is behind bars.

And, unlike the infamous Jack the Ripper or the Boston Strangler who preyed on helpless adults, the sick killer of Timothy King, Mark Stebbins, Jill Robinson and Kristine Mihelich, must be brought to justice to answer for his shocking crimes.

We owe it to his victims — innocent boys and girls who apparently were singled out by this deranged man because they were too young to fight back.

Now, there is an eerie stillness these days in Birmingham and the outlying communities. The residents live in fear. They keep their children within eye-range. They wonder if, and when, the killer will strike again.

And parents won't let their children out alone, even in the daylight. They caution them against strangers and to be suspicious of everyone.

It is good advice but paradoxically, it may scar the child's mind the rest of his life.

How do we exorcise fear and suspicion of adults from the child after this is all over? Will we ever be able to?

Meanwhile, local law enforcement agencies, schools and parents have combined their resources to make children more aware of the dangers posed by accepting enticements from strangers.

"Law enforcement, schools and parents must work together," said Ray LeCormu, director of public safety for Wayne. "We must continue to stress the things we have stressed in the past — to be wary of strangers and to make sure that parents know where their children are and with whom they associate."

LeCormu said the Wayne-Westland Community Schools has organized a task force for the purpose of the safety of our children. That task force consists of a school board member and a Wayne police detective, Westland police corporal and concerned citizens who report to the school board and make recommendations.

Has there been any attempted reports of child-kidnapping-molestings in the city of late?

"Fortunately not," LeCormu said. "I feel these killings have brought to the forefront the problem, and parents have instructed their children to be doubly alert."

LeCormu added that Birmingham Police have requested assistance in their search for the pedophile and that he had specifically assigned an officer to the task force that is investigating the murders.

"I have had patrolmen come to me and ask if they can donate their time to assist Birmingham," LeCormu noted. "We have made arrangements for them to do so."

Westland had as many as six officers assigned to Birmingham and presently has two helping in the search for the murderer, according to Police Chief William Rechlin.

Rechlin continued to stress the importance of parents "setting down guidelines" for their children.

Parents must reinforce, must continue to warn children, that they should not accept rides or anything from strangers," he said. "In recent months we have had reports of attempted child-kidnapping. In fact, one fellow was just sentenced to 15 to 30 years for child abduction in this city."

"And we presently have a person behind bars who was charged on three counts of sex offenses against minor children. However, in this case there was no similarity to the Oakland killings."

"This man knew the parents, the kids in the community liked him," Chief Rechlin added. "This guy is in jail and not out on bond."

On the brighter side

Without a woman's touch

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

The loving presence of a woman in a home cannot be measured in value.

That home which has no woman's touch — be it wife, mother or cleaning woman — is not complete. It's just a shell, an empty hulk of wood and brick held together by nails and mortar alone.

This impression of a woman-less home has been forcibly brought upon my mind tonight. My wife had the opportunity to fly to California for a week's vacation and she richly deserves it. I even encouraged her to go when she started to feel reluctant about leaving.

But her departure has brought some lonely moments here at home.

The evening has worn away and only the gentle sounds of the house are heard. The ticking of the clock. The occasional purring of the furnace fan or the chilling wind rattling a loose window.

I'm a lonely person at times. I get melancholy very easy and now the house is quiet with our three boys in bed. The silent television set gives time for reflection and thought as the kitchen clock passes midnight and welcomes a new day.

I guess I first really noticed my wife's absence tonight when we started thinking about supper. Although we enjoyed an easy hot meal, especially with our microwave oven, the touch at the table wasn't the same.

There was an empty chair at the supper table tonight.

A mother's settling calm was absent and a loving wife's companionship missing. After supper, the boys rushed to their youthful pursuits, striving to wring the last ounce of excitement from the dying day.

Then I read the newspaper in an empty house. The soft living room chair where my wife usually sits with her feet curled up underneath her was vacant. And the television newscaster reported to a lone watcher.

There was an empty chair in the living room tonight.

The quiet of the house was broken when I flicked on the record player and familiar strains of instrumental hymns wafted through the house. Shaved, washed and dried, I slipped into my pajamas and relaxed, half-buried in the soft living room chair.

Thoughts of appreciation and love for my wife filled my mind. She's been a wonderful marriage partner for 21 years — but she's been much more than that. She's also been my best friend, lover, supporter, severest critic and the one who lovingly wipes away my tears of discouragement and failure. We kiss goodnight when we go to bed.

There's a missing kiss in the bedroom tonight.

Lost in meditation, I was vaguely aware when the last record finished and silence returned. Time had swiftly slipped by and now it was past midnight. I turned off the living room lamp and headed slowly for the bedroom. I crawled into bed and glanced over to where my wife usually sleeps.

There's an empty place in my bed tonight.

A woman makes a house into a home. Only she can add that touch, that care and feeling, which brings peace and contentment to those who dwell therein. She feeds, clothes and nurses the flock. Her guiding hand brings contentment and order out of possible chaos.

A mother is to a home what a captain is to a ship. She is the unsung hero of every family, the most under-rated player on the team. Efficiency is her watchword and because of her success she is taken for granted.

But remove the mother from her children, the wife from her husband, the caretaker from the premises, and the home is reduced to mere nails and mortar, wood and brick — a helpless hulk of loneliness.

Without a woman, there's an empty spot in every room in the house.

Health Beat

Hospital increases not unique

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

The health care delivery industry, last year, was compelled to live under the constraints of some arbitrarily imposed cost caps.

It appears certain that again this year certain restrictions will be imposed on hospitals.

According to the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW), Mr. Joseph Califano, Jr., the limitation or cap has not yet been precisely determined. But it would appear with the data available to us, that the limitation will be of the order of 9 percent, with a possible augmentation of a 1 percent allowance for exceptional cases.

The suggestion from Washington is that 9 percent... would be ample... and thus satisfy the needs of the industry.

We hope the extrapolations made in Washington prove to be accurate. We hope that labor costs, energy costs, food costs, et al stay within the same 9 percent limitation.

Still, impositions of cost caps represent a curious phenomenon. How is it possible, for instance, to establish a limitation on one end of a spectrum while the other end (the costs referred to above) is not controlled? And it is precisely the uncontrolled costs which impact most severely on the over-all costs of delivering health care services!

Am I suggesting cost caps on either end of the spectrum? Definitely not. That approach was tried in the various phase programs of the Nixon administration, and the results were, to be charitable, unsatisfactory.

At the risk of sounding paranoid — as many of us in the hospital public information and education profession may appear to be — I feel I must protest what is in my judgment an unfair attack on the health care delivery industry.

Objectivity requires an examination of other goods and services which represent substantial portions of our Gross National Product (GNP).

And let's look at an industry well known in Michigan, the automobile industry. This industry has captured 2 percent of the GNP. (That figure may vary according to one's source; my source was a very high-placed, and knowledgeable executive who is employed by one of the big three.)

Automobile costs have skyrocketed, spiraled, and inflated beyond belief in the past three or four years. At PCHA it is necessary, principally because of the geography embraced by our five hospitals, to purchase a fleet of automobiles on an annual basis.

In 1974 the automobiles cost on the average of $3400 each; the same vehicle type in 1977 cost $4700 each. A dramatic and almost out-of-control inflation. Yet, do we hear of cost caps of other third-party interference with this segment of our GNP?

Clearly, we do not. We have created, or allowed to be created in this Country, a mobile society which demands the use of automobiles. It's no longer a luxury; an automobile is a necessity. And we are going to pay for that necessity even if finance contracts have to be extended for 48 months — which indeed is not all that uncommon anymore.

The point I'm trying to make, and I hope I've not labored it, is simply that it is not only the health care industry which has seen its charges increase. And, a fair-minded person ought to look at all segments of the GNP before zeroing in on an industry which represents only 8.3 percent of that GNP.

Room rates at PCHA hospitals are going to be $106 per day as of May 5 this year. A rate, incidentally, which is still lower than most comparable facilities in Southeast Michigan. We readily agree that $106 a day is a lot of money. Still, most of the components which make up the need for that $106 figure are not controlled by hospital management.

Our salary and wage schedules must be a reflection of what is paid at other institutions. Our costs for energy have risen steeply, and the goods and services we must purchase to provide quality health care to our patients continue to cost us more money.

PCHA hospitals are not, by statutory declaration, profit making. Any revenues which we may gather in excess of our costs must be returned to the hospital in another attempt to reduce over-all costs of operating and maintaining our facilities.

Hence, PCHA costs are as low as prudent business judgments allow.

In profit-making enterprises, and let's cite the automotive industry again, cost increases are handled by passing on these increases to the consumer. Indeed, last week I priced an automobile which at one time was promoted as a "working man's car". This machine carried a price sticker which stunned me: my wife will have to make her '72 model last one more year!

Hospitals, however, are fast reaching the point where consumers and government are saying we ought not to be allowed the right to have our consumers absorb our increased costs. And that is an interesting situation which we plan to address in next week's column.

Open Forum

Congressman Ford congratulated by Mayor

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly congratulate Congressman William D. Ford on his recent appointment as a national "Whip-at-Large" by the Democratic leadership in the House of Representatives.

Named by House Majority Leader Jim Wright as one of seven House Democrats to assume this newly-created post, I feel Congressman Ford was an excellent choice for this position. He will now be receiving official recognition for tasks he routinely performed as a Congressman.

The function of the whips, according to Wright, is to help the leadership keep abreast of the thinking of House members and to promote support for Democratic programs.

Even while Congressman Ford has been able to assume a leadership position among his peers, he has continued to maintain close ties with his constituents here in the 15th Congressional District.

For this, and particularly his help with obtaining federal funding for the new 34th district courthouse to be located in the Romulus Civic Center, we are most grateful.

James C. Stewart

What the kids think about the millage loss

Dear Editor:

The 5-6 class at Wick Elementary were very concerned about the recent failure of the Romulus School Millage. Enclosed are their comments.

They were encouraged to write them down and send them to you in hopes that the frustrations that they felt may change a few minds of the negative voters.

Chris Powers
Elementary Educator
Wick School

Dear Romulus voters,

c-o Romulus Roman

The ones who voted no are not giving the kids a chance. If we could have gym, music, and art maybe we would learn more things. And now we are going to have to walk to school. And when we walk to school it won't be safe. Some kid might get killed or something might even worse happen. Half of the kids won't be coming to school. And that's what might just happen.

Janine Darda

Dear Romulus Voters,

I feel that us kids should be the only ones to vote and the millage would probably pass, and we would probably have gym, music, art ect., And I don't want to walk to school!

Sincerely yours
Lamont Taylor

Dear Rom. voters,

I'm a 6th grader and I'm gonna tell you my version. If the 6th graders and all the other kids voted it would of passed and that's that.

By Kevin S.

Dear Romulus Voters,

I think the millage was bad. We did not do good. If we could do better. So we will not have some of the follow things that might happen: walking, half day and closing down some schools. If we do we will have a risk they might get kidnapped and we might get hit by cars. So let's vote yes because the schools do not have all that money! So let move it and vote yes.

Jonathan Schultz
Grade 5th
Room 17 Wick
Elementary school

Dear Romulus voters,

Editors if you would let us kids vote the millage would have passed but you don't let kids vote. The people that voted no are stupid.

Dear Romulus Voters,

Thank you voters who voted yes But you voters who voted no that was wrong. The kids who live a mile and a half has to walk, and there isn't any sidewalks for the kids to walk on. So how would you feel if a kid got hurt because you voted no. And us kids won't have enough time to get a good education. So you voters who voted no better think twice next time before you vote. Please vote yes next time.

Sincerely,
Lisa Pierce

PBB relief bill introduced

Michigan's sagging economy, already crippled by high unemployment, inflation and sales slowdowns, has been dealt another blow by the mushrooming PBB problem.

As most Michigan residents are painfully aware, PBB (short for polybrominated biphenyl) is a chemical fire retardant which was accidentally and unknowingly used as a cattle-feed supplement by an undetermined number of up-state dairy farmers in the early summer of 1973.

The mixup was not discovered for nearly a year, during which time many Michigan residents unwittingly used milk, cheese, beef, eggs and other farm products which had been contaminated with PBB.

Studies are now under way to determine the exact extent of the problem, but there seems no doubt that a potentially dangerous chemical has found its way into the state's food chain.

More than a million dairy cattle have been slaughtered, thousands of gallons of milk destroyed, and thousands of farmers have suffered economic setbacks from which many may never recover.

Civil suits have been started in court over the original contamination, which has been traced to a labeling error. In at least one area, PBB waste was dumped in a landfill area, and has posed the threat of a polluted water supply.

Some scientists have warned of possible long-range health problems, including cancer and birth defects, based on studies involving laboratory animals.

The fact is, however, that little is really known or understood of the actual PBB danger.

The chemical is relatively new, having been developed only five years ago. Research into its possible effects on humans was begun only after the Michigan mishap.

I have co-sponsored two bills in Congress which are designed to help remedy the situation.

One would set a lower Federal limit on the allowable level of PBB in dairy products and other farm items for the food market.

Under present law, the PBB tolerance level has been set at 3 parts per million. Our legislation would reduce this level to .02 parts per million.

The higher level was originally set before the potential hazard of PBB was fully known. The substantial reduction in the tolerance level should provide better health protection and also help restore consumer confidence in food safety.

The other legislation is designed to provide relief for Michigan farmers, many of whom have seen their life savings and future income wiped out in the PBB tragedy.

Our bill would establish a loan program which would enable farmers to continue to operate their farms despite the loss of livestock and/or crops due to accidental chemical contamination.

It is important to note that the money would be in the form of loans, not subsidies or grants. It would have to be repaid to the Government within seven years, at interest rates which would reflect the actual cost of the money to the Government.

I think both of these bills are vitally important to Michigan — both for the health and public confidence of our citizens, and for the economic well-being of the farmers who have been so drastically and unfairly affected by the PBB mishap.

Michigan's Senator Donald W. Riegle has scheduled four days of hearings through-out the state for the last week of March to consider all aspects of the problem.

A member of the Senate Commerce Committee, Riegle will be taking his colleagues and staff members to various cities and farm areas to hear testimony by farmers, scientists, attorneys, insurance experts, concerned citizens and others.

The results of these field hearings will help the Congress determine the degree of damage and potential damage, and ways of preventing such disasters in the future.

'My final statement' — Bonczek

Dear Mrs. McAnally,

I would like to take this final opportunity to attempt to clarify the numerous misconceptions presented in your letter of March 30, 1977, concerning federal programs in Romulus.

Your statements on the 34th District Courthouse and the Fire Hall grants seem to indicate that the City merely had to request federal funds for construction costs and they would automatically be received.

In reference to the Courthouse, preliminary site plans were completed and the building authority had anticipated the sale of bonds. The preliminary plans for the Fire Hall were complete but a site had not been chosen.

The Community Development Department, at the direction of Mayor Stewart, initiated the involved process of preparing grant applications in an effort to acquire 100 percent federal funding for both projects with the Economic Development Administration of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

The result of this intensive effort was the awarding of both grants to the City.

What is not readily apparent is the fact that the majority of Michigan communities which had submitted applications did not receive funding. The City of Romulus' applications were ranked 5th and 6th out of the 1392 applications submitted for funding consideration. (Only sixty projects received funding and several requests for Courthouses and Fire Stations were not funded.)

To presume that the City only had to ask for funding is very misleading.

As to your statement regarding the City's elimination from participation in the Wayne County Block Grant Program, I agree with you.

The responsibility for deciding whether the City would join the Wayne County Program was with the previous grants administrator and Council. If you will consult Resolution 75-908 you will discover that the Council concurred with the recommendation of the previous grants administrator and voted unanimously against joining the County Program.

"All facts can be verified by documentation"

In reference to your comments on the CETA program, the $17,000 surplus was planned to be utilized for retroactive pay increases and new CETA move of confiscating local CETA funds.

Past experience indicated that the City's CETA funds would be available for the full grant period.

Contrary to your statement regarding the Archery Range, the fact is that the Purchasing Director became aware of the Archery Program in March 1976 and convinced the Mayor and Recreation Department of the need for such a facility.

The grant application was prepared and submitted by my office with the cooperation of many individuals, including the Recreation Commission and Recreation Director.

In regard to the residency question, every employee working in the Community Development Department conforms to city policy regarding employee residency.

As to your question concerning the City applying to the Department of Labor for permission to hire laid-off regular employees on CETA, it is evident you have not consulted with the Community Development Department on matters concerning federal programs in Romulus.

I have been preparing, over the last two weeks, a comprehensive package of relevant information concerning the rehire of the laid-off regular employees on CETA, which will be submitted to the Wayne County Office of Manpower shortly.

As to the question of the personnel transfer, since the Open Meetings Act makes specific exemptions in the area of personnel relations, I would prefer to meet with you in private to discuss the situation in order to protect the legal rights of the affected employee.

Lastly, your statement that the majority of the $3,405,000 in federal funds the City has received since I became Director was generated by the previous administration, is totally erroneous.

A Department Funding and Progress Report submitted to Council on January 13, 1976, reflecting total funding acquired by the previous grants administrator indicates a total of $732,634 in federal funds acquired for a thirteen month period.

The $3,405,000 in federal funds acquired and administered by my office since August 1976 was extensively documented in my Department Report submitted to Council in January 1977.

My responsibility as Community Development Director is to serve the community through the acquisition and administration of federal funds for local service needs.

I will continue to defer to the elected officials of this community the design of city goals and the setting of policies.

I do not think it is in the best interests of the community to continue this discourse ad infinitum. I reiterate my previous statement, that all facts presented in this letter can be verified by written documentation that is available in my office for you or any other interested citizen to review.

Let us continue to work together in a positive manner in order to build a better community.

Off the Record

By ANP editors and staff writers

The Break Is Broken

Judging by the number of Westland DPS trucks parked in Chatham's lot, at Ford and Wayne road, it would seem that a restaurant located near that corner must be the DPS annex.

It is reported that, two weeks ago a city road grader pulled into that lot, and did not leave it for over forty five minutes, while its driver was taking his 15 minute coffee break.

It was reported that last week, a city truck (number 61), with a chipper attached to it, sat in the lot for over forty minutes waiting for its driver to finish his 15 minute break, with the chipper motor running the entire time.

We wonder if the drivers of those vehicles were discussing poor working conditions, while drinking all that coffee?

'Snip, snip, snip'

According to the Westland City Charter, the mayor must submit his proposed budget to the council by April 1. Traditionally, the mayor and his staff work right up to the deadline, putting finishing touches on the weeks of work until the evening of April 1.

A trip to City Hall last Thursday afternoon, March 31, showed a very busy budget director, Kent Herbert, wielding scissors and glue as he cut up print out sheets and assembled the pages into some semblance of order.

Glad to see that newspaper reporters aren't the only ones who frequently squeeze a deadline, and end up cutting and pasting the story together with an eye on the clock.

Mum's the word moms

In Van Buren Township the three highest elected officials are women. This has caused some to wonder if this is the only such instance in the state. However, it has led some humorous observers to tag the trio as the "Mom's Club" at township hall.

Other citizens in the township claim the three have been very "hush-hush" in letting residents know about the recent pay raise granted by the Compensation Commission, more accurately known as the pay board.

This latest alleged "secrecy" on the trio's part led one wag to comment, "Maybe we should call them the 'Mum's Club.'"

The Red Baron strikes again

The Publisher of Associated Newspapers, David J. Willett, and ANP's Chief photographer, Lothar Koneitzko, attended Ford Motor Co's introduction of their new small Lincoln Versailles luxury car, held in Los Angeles, last week.

As a part of the introduction ceremonies, guests were invited to test drive both the Versailles, and two of its competitors.

Lothar, the old German pilot of years gone by, took that opportunity to impress Willett with his ability to fly low on those L.A. freeways.

On his return to Wayne, Willett was overheard to have commented, "If you are ever blessed with the opportunity of riding with Lothar while he is test driving a car, take my advice, 'Don't do it.'"

Smile when you talk about my conception

Discussing the expansion of the Canton Township Police force trustee Bob Myers said, "I was one of the board members who voted against your conception, Mr. Schwall, as a Police Commissioner."

Schwall proclaimed, "You voted for my appointment but you had nothing to do with my conception."

Which spurred Myers during the intermission to state, "I wasn't referring to birthin-babies, I do believe that if Mr. Schwall opens a dictionary he will find that conception has two meanings."

Anybody know what he said?

Trustee Brian Schwall of Canton Township has a mathematical mind, as he illustrated at a recent township board meeting. Schwall said, "Let's look at this ZBA situation logically. Five and five equals ten, and five and four equals nine." He continued, "Who says that nine is not as good as 10?"

Anybody know what he said?

Under Riegle proposal

State would have veto of nuclear dumping

Freshman Sen. Donald W. Riegle Jr. has introduced a bill which would give states veto power over federal selection of nuclear waste disposal sites.

The bill — S. 1008 — was introduced in conjunction with Riegle's testimony before the Governor's Nuclear Waste Disposal Task Force. Riegle's statement was delivered in Lansing by his state government liaison, Howard Wolpe.

"We now need to insure, by appropriate federal and state statutes, that the people will indeed have the final say on the issues of nuclear energy and waste disposal. We in government have an obligation to widen, not to restrict, the opportunities for citizen participation," Riegle said.

The measure is the Senate version of a bill introduced in the House by Congressmen Bob Carr and Phillip Ruppe. The bill would require the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) to notify state legislatures of any intent to explore a site for the purpose of constructing a radioactive waste storage facility.

In addition, the bill prohibits ERDA from contracting for a storage facility, if the state legislature, by concurrent resolution, states that the site may not be used for such purposes. Riegle said the bill will allow citizens, through their elected representatives, to become more involved in the decision making process.

In the statement, Riegle underlined portions of the task force report which state that the disposal of nuclear wastes carries with it enormous — and, as yet, unresolved — technical difficulties.

"Today, more than 30 years after the passage of the Atomic Energy Act, and with an accumulation of more than 80 million gallons of high level radioactive waste, our government has yet to identify a single site or method for the permanent, safe disposal of high-level radioactive waste materials," Riegle said.

He noted that ERDA has provided written and verbal assurances to Gov. William Milliken that he will have a veto over any final decision to locate a nuclear waste dumping facility in Michigan.

"However, neither he nor the people of Michigan should be satisfied with these assurances. Only within the past few days have we seen federal officials back off their earlier similar assurances that the governor would have an effective veto with regard to the Seafarer project. Clearly, in the absence of a statutory mandate, verbal and written statements of federal bureaucrats count for little," Riegle said.

Riegle also urged the governor and his task force to support legislation to be introduced in the Michigan Legislature by State Rep. Lynn Jondahl. Jondahl's bill would prohibit the establishment of a nuclear waste disposal facility from being located in Michigan without a certificate of reliability from the Public Service Commission and an affirmative vote of approval by the State Legislature.

Riegle added: "The people have the right to know. They have a right to be involved in the decision-making process. Only the people can make the decision as to whether or not the risks of any given course of action are worth taking."

Cory School hosts own Activities Day

Students and teachers alike did what interested them for an entire day, when Cory Elementary School staged its first Activity Day March 4.

Each teacher, as well as other members of the staff and some volunteers, choose and activity of interest and students were permitted to sign up for those activities that were of interest to them.

The staff felt the classes served as insight for the students, giving them a look at activities available later on in their schooling. They added that the activities will help the children to decide on a class they may want to take in junior or senior high school.

"In addition to being of educational value, we hope this experience will be a spark to make school a really interesting and fun place to be, where things are going on and happening to hold the ever wandering interest of our youngsters," a school spokesman said. "The learning process is enhanced and the pathway opened when a youngster is glad to be in school — when that school can create a relaxed and an 'I want to learn' atmosphere and the students feel they must be in school or they 'might miss something'."

The school already is planning a second Activity Day, slated for April, when it hopes to involve more parents and community members.

Garden doctor has some tips

Here are some spring garden tips from the "garden doctor", better known as the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service.

Q: I have a young maple tree that needs to be moved. Is this a good time to do it?

A: Yes, transplant it before it starts to leaf out. After transplanting, brace it in position, water thoroughly and wrap the trunk. Provide water during summer droughts, too.

Q: A grass called "Zoysia" sounds really low-maintenance. Is Zoysia good for our climate?

A: Zoysia is not recommended for Michigan. It is classified as a warm-season grass. In our cool climate, it would remain brown longer into the spring and brown out early in the autumn.

Q: I have started some cabbage plants on the windowsill. They germinated well, but the plants are thin and leaning over. What can I do to make them strong and stocky?

A: This probably is the most common problem with starting transplants indoors. The solution is to give them plenty of direct sunlight and cool temperatures. Put them under horticultural lights 16-18 hours per day, if you can. Otherwise, get them into a south window and take them outdoors on warm days to supplement their light. Try to keep the temperature around 65 degrees.

Q: Our lawn was full of weeds last year when we bought our house. This year I want to clean it up. Where do I start?

A: To be sure of complete crabgrass control, put on a pre-emergent crabgrass killer before forsythia are in full bloom. Most homeowners will get adequate control, if the pre-emergent is applied before the soil temperature reaches 60 degrees. Do your raking before applying this, since the soil shouldn't be disturbed afterwards. During May when the broadleaved weeds are actively growing, use 2, 4-D or a 2, 4-D and Silvex combination. Send specimens of any weeds that persist through the summer to your County Extension Service for identification and further control measures. Remember that regular fertilizing and mowing eliminates many of the weeds that grow in abandoned and neglected lawns.

Foster youths to return home

A 6-month intensified effort to return youngsters in foster homes to their natural parents or relatives will begin April 1, 1977 as a result of $75,000 Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) grant given to the Wayne County Department of Social Services (WCDSS).

Most of the grant will be used to train WCDSS staff to work with the natural parents and orient them to the changes that have to take place before their youngster can be returned home for permanent custody. In cases where a youngster should not be returned home, the department will encourage the youth's foster parents to adopt them.

There currently are 1800 temporary court wards in Wayne County under the supervision of the Department of Social Services. The department provides direct services to 900 of them and purchases services from private agencies and institutions for the remaining 900.

Specific law could block dumping of nuclear waste

Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley has said the state may be able to block federal establishment of a nuclear waste dump by passage of specific legislation.

In a letter to State Sen. Gary Corbin (D-Clio), Kelley said four Michigan statutes ceding jurisdiction over federally-acquired property to the United States must be amended to deny the federal government jurisdiction over property that may be used as a nuclear waste disposal site.

Kelley wrote: "Your initiative in sponsoring this legislation concerning a matter of such vital interest to all the people of this state is very gratifying. I also would like to commend you for taking what I feel to be appropriate and responsible legislative action to safeguard the interests of the people of the State of Michigan.

"I would, however, like to suggest that you sponsor additional legislation, modeled after your Senate Bill No. 153, to effectively eliminate the possibility of the United States acquiring Michigan land for the purposes of establishing a nuclear waste disposal site in Michigan."

In testimony prepared for delivery before the Governor's Task Force on Nuclear Waste Disposal, Kelley urged the legislature to pass the legislation detailed in his letter to Sen. Corbin plus another measure.

"I recommend that the legislature pass a statute which would simply and flatly prohibit the disposal of nuclear wastes in this state," he said.

"We don't need to ask the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) to allow our state to have a say in this decision—the Constitution of the United States guarantees us such a say," he added.

ERDA is known to be looking at the Alpena region of Michigan as a possible site for a nuclear waste dump. Alpena is Kelley's adopted home town. The Attorney General lived in that city for 10 years prior to becoming attorney general. While in Alpena, Kelley served as city attorney.

In his testimony Kelley pledged to make ERDA obey all state and federal environmental protection laws with regard to the possible establishment of a nuclear dump in Alpena and to also file an environmental impact statement before the project begins.

Kelley said: "I will demand, in court if necessary, that an environmental impact statement be done before any site decision is made. If my environmental lawyers, and the people in the Department of Natural Resources, or the people in the Department of Public Health, do not regard that impact statement as adequate, I will go to court to ensure that an adequate study is done."

Also in his testimony, Kelley told the task force that he would demand proof, not just bureaucratic assurance, that the Great Lakes surrounding the state and the groundwaters of the state would be protected in the event of the establishment of a nuclear waste dump in the state.

Sumpter School students delve into dental health

Why do our teeth decay and give us a toothache?

This was part of the good dental health habits studied recently in third-fourth grade combination room at Sumpter Elementary School.

The children learned about the "hows" and "whys" of tooth decay. They learned that sugar creates and acid in the mouth that can eat away the tooth enamel.

"The children concluded that sweets were not good for teeth and they should not be eaten," said Mrs. Guyton. "The more practical students pointed out that most children will not stop eating sweets, so if sweets are eaten, it's best to eat them all at one time during the day.

Then rinse the mouth after the sweet binge."

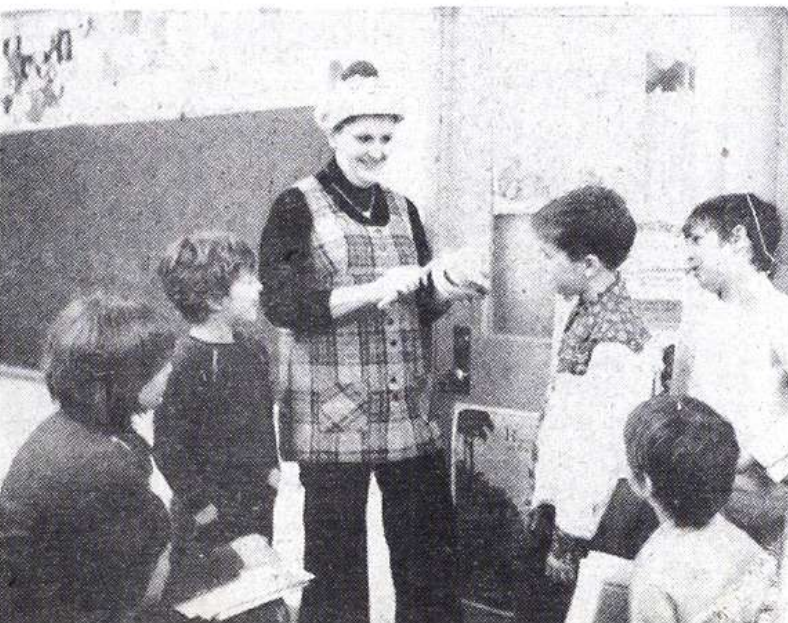

During Dental Health Week, the children studied and sampled foods such as carrots, celery and radishes which are considered "nature's tooth brushes".

Mrs. Guyton said the class has taken time after lunch to brush and floss their teeth.

"They learned the proper procedure for brushing and flossing from Mr. Big Mouth, an enlarged model of teeth," she said.

The children finished the unit by making a class booklet about good dental health habits.

Gives outcounty 'the shaft'

Smith attacks SEMTA transit selection

Wayne County Commissioner Royce E. Smith of the 26th District has charged the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) with "giving the shaft to Western Wayne County citizens who desperately need mass transportation services".

Smith's charged was made following a recent announcement by SEMTA that its board had selected the four "best possible transportation systems to meet the needs of the people of southeast Michigan".

"All four of these plans shortchange the growing, heavily populated Western Wayne County area," Smith said. "It's a disgrace. While the proposed routes and schedules look good on paper, the truth is that SEMTA has no plans to put additional buses into Western Wayne County until at least 1985."

Ma Bell to save energy

Michigan Bell Telephone has announced plans to reduce energy consumption in its 800 buildings across the state by at least 10 percent over the next five years.

The energy savings program will be accomplished even though the company projects an annual growth rate of some quarter-million square feet of floor space, the equivalent of about 200 homes.

Michigan Bell President David K. Easlick said the company's objective "is to achieve zero energy growth based on the amount of floor space we had in 1974".

He said the new program goes far beyond such standard energy conservation measures as dialing down thermostats and turning off lights.

"In the last three years, Michigan Bell has saved enough energy to heat about 6,000 average homes," he added. "Now we're looking closely at every building we have and will fine tune each so that we use only as much energy as we absolutely need."

Easlick said Michigan Bell expects to spend nearly $5 million through 1980 on the conservation project.

"Since this project is in the public interest and will reduce the cost of providing telephone service, I think that $5 million will be very well spent," he said.

According to Easlick, the Michigan Bell program includes changing the design of some buildings, modifying duct work, and installing thermostatlike heat sensors connected to computers.

Easlick said the company expects to spend almost $20 million on energy in 1977. About $15 million of that will be for electricity and natural gas in its buildings, with another $5 million for gasoline.

He added that if Michigan Bell adhered only to the conservation guidelines established by various federal agencies, it would be spending almost $30 million a year to operate its buildings by 1982.

Easlick said this massive program was stimulated by various federal and state energy conservation programs and by the rapid escalation in the cost of electricity and natural gas.

"When many of our older buildings were erected, the cost of heating, air conditioning, and equipment operation wasn't a major consideration," he explained. "Now that that cost has become so large, we've got to do something about it."

Smith said SEMTA's proposed "1985 plan" would immediately pour $60 million into a 2.3 mile downtown Detroit people mover "while virtually ignoring the needs of outcounty residents."

Smith further warned that SEMTA, and ultimately the taxpayers, were headed for financial chaos, if one of the current plans is adopted.

"I am extremely concerned about how they intend to finance these transportation plans," Smith said. "SEMTA receives about $22 million a year from the gasoline tax, plus federal and state grants and money from passengers. And yet, they have a big operating deficit."

"I was shocked to learn that the Michigan State Highway Commission has loaned them $30 million from the State Trunkline Fund and another $13 million from the Operations Fund."

Smith wants SEMTA officials to explain how they intended to "pay back the $43 million loan".

"The only way they possibly could pay it back is to sell $150 million in bonds, but the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission has refused to give its approval," he added. "The matter is now before the Michigan Supreme Court. If the court denies the bond program, how will they ever pay it back?"

Smith said this would further penalize outcounty residents because the highway money funds are earmarked for roads.

"Roads in Western Wayne County are going to pot," he explained. "Take a ride down Haggerty Road for a prime example of what I'm talking about."

"If the highway commission has $43 million to loan out, then its present share of the state gas tax is too high."

Under present law, the 9-cent gas tax is divided, with SEMTA getting 1/2 cent a gallon; the state, 44.5 percent; county road commissions, 35.7 percent; and 19.8 percent to cities and municipalities.

"I suggest that the State Legislature reduce the amount the Highway Department receives and give more to county road commissions, cities and towns," Smith recommended.

He also was critical of Gov. Milliken's proposed transportation package.

"The Governor has proposed a $2.50 car license increase, a $2 to $8 price hike in car title transfers and 2-cent gas tax increase with possibly 60 percent going to SEMTA," Smith said. "Between the Governor and SEMTA, outcounty residents will be paying for five to 10 years before getting any benefits."

"SEMTA must revise its priorities to give all citizens an equal break. We need some way for outcounty people, particularly the elderly, to get to Detroit. While many Detroit buses are running half-filled, suburban residents without cars have no way of getting into the city."

Smith has predicted that if the SEMTA plans go through without more careful financial analysis, it will be operating with a $150 to $200 million deficit five years from now. "I'm not against public transportation," Smith explained,

"but I can't see putting anything into operation until you know exactly where the money will come from."

Phillips to attend service

Mr. and Mrs. Jewell Phillips of Kozma Road, Belleville, have been invited to attend today's Honors Convocation at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

The ceremony, which will recognize the academic efforts of students at the university, including the Phillips' daughter, Michelle, a first-year student, will be held in Pease Auditorium.

To 'halt existing abuses'

Bill would regulate collection practices

Legislation has been introduced in Congress by U.S. Sen. Donald Riegle Jr. which would regulate debt collection practices in a move to "halt existing abuses and curb any tendency to treat consumers unfairly."

Riegle said his bill, the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (S.918) would regulate the conduct of independent debt collectors only — not creditors who collect their own accounts. "I believe this is a sensible approach, as independent debt collectors are a separate trade, justifying separate treatment," Riegle said.

The bill has been referred to the Subcommittee on Consumer Affairs of the Senate Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs Committee. Riegle, chairman of the subcommittee, tentatively has scheduled hearings on the bill April 25, 26, and 27.

Riegle said deception, harassment, threats and invasion of privacy are too often the tools of those who collect overdue accounts for others.

"Obviously, not all independent debt collectors resort to such tactics, but I am convinced that these abuses are so common that legislation is essential to curb them," he added.

Riegle said the bill lists a host of unfair, deceptive and harassing tactics and strictly prohibits them. In addition the bill prohibits certain procedural tricks which have been used to deny a debtor his day in court.

One of the special features of this bill is that it covers collection of all personal debts, regardless of whether they have been reduced to judgement. In addition, a creditor can be held jointly liable with his debt collector when the creditor has knowledge of the debt collector's violation of the act.

Included in the bill also is a provision to give enforcement authority to state and local authorities, in addition to the Federal Trade Commission. Also, one bill permits an aggrieved individual to recover actual damages which may include damages for emotional distress or mental anguish.

Riegle said House of Representatives hearings have documented the following types of practices: impersonation of government officials; simulation of legal process; profane and abusive telephone calls at all hours; obtaining information from friends and neighbors under false pretenses; falsely threatening arrest or forcible removal of a debtor's children; and humiliating a debtor before his employer.

"I believe that all citizens share my abhorrence for these outrageous practices and agree that they must be put to a stop. I also believe that the legislation I have offered is a fair, effective, and workable approach," Riegle concluded.

Reye's Syndrome: Outbreak is milder than during 1976

Physicians at the University of Michigan's (U-M) C. S. Mott Children's Hospital have reported that cases of Reye's Syndrome again are appearing in the state, although the outbreak seems much milder this year than last.

Dr. Joseph V. Baublis, U-M professor of pediatrics, said three children have been admitted to the hospital in the past month with the syndrome—an often-fatal liver and brain condition. It is not contagious, but seems to follow virus diseases.

Although still a very serious condition with a grave prognosis unless the patient is quickly given special hospital care, the impact of Reye's in Michigan this season appears much less severe than last winter and spring when 20 children were hospitalized at Mott, Dr. Baublis noted.

Another hopeful outlook has been the development by a U-M team of neurosurgeons, pediatricians and anesthesiologists of a new, more effective way to treat the more severe form of the syndrome which, by disabling the liver, releases toxins in the blood, causing potentially fatal brain swelling.

The new treatment stresses control of brain pressure by special drugs. The effect of the drug is measured through a small, temporary hole in the skull where pressures are constantly monitored at the surface of the brain.

Unless swelling is controlled, the brain literally can strangle itself in the confines of the skull, by cutting off its own blood supply, Dr. Baublis said.

The U-M approach to Reye's Syndrome has supplanted other techniques such as blood cleansing by dialysis through the abdominal membrane or removal of the top of the skull to relieve brain pressure.

The Reye's special treatment team at the U-M has increased the survival rate from 50 percent up to 80 percent in patients with the moderately severe form of the disease.

"We feel there has been a really significant gain due to this method of treating these patients," Dr. Baublis said.

The physician added that recovery from Reye's depends a lot on alertness by parents and their physicians. Reye's can be mistaken, at first, for poisoning or drug overdose. It usually comes in the recovery stage of a viral infection such as chicken pox or influenza and starts with a steady, relentless vomiting.

This is followed by an alteration of consciousness. The patient may go into a stupor, want to struggle, fight or argue, have hallucinations, become delirious or have a seizure. These mental changes should be a sign to seek medical help immediately, Dr. Baublis said.

"Unless the patient is taken quickly to a medical center where close, intensive monitoring of brain and blood pressures is possible, the likelihood of death or brain damage is greatly increased," he warned.

Senior gardeners prepare for planting

By MAUREEN BEATTY

A few weeks ago we discussed the garden program for seniors. Now, along with spring, the project is under way. On March 31, 65 prospective gardeners attended a meeting at J Building.

As a project for their final examination at Madonna College in Livonia, Jean O'Brien, Karen Sulkowski, Charlie McLaughlin, Dolores Pietruk and Joyce Smith, all first-year paraprofessional gerontology students, researched and presented an enlightening talk on gardening.

Joyce, a full-time wife and mother, not only is working toward a degree, but also is a part-time coordinator for the Wayne County Office on Aging's Nutrition Program.

Subjects discussed by the panel covered such ground (no pun intended) as soil, how to plant and mark rows, how to start seeds indoors, and garden pests. Tips on canning, nutritional value of vegetables, and basic suggestions such as wearing a sun hat and resting while gardening, also were presented. Did you know that smoking around your plants is bad for them? No wonder my indoor plants look so unhealthy.

Joan DiDia, garden project coordinator, informed the group that 50 acres are now plowed and assigned to 125 seniors. Joan is hopeful that an additional five acres will be made available. At this time, Joan has 50 names on a waiting list for future plots. The plots, supplied free by the county, are located near Michigan Avenue and Merriman Road.

Fellowship also was mentioned by Joyce Smith, as another aspect of the garden plots. Certainly, our gardeners will have much in common, and frequent discussions should arise at the garden sites. From such as that, lasting friendships have been made. After the presentation, a brief questions and answer period was held, and seeds, donated by Frank's Nurseries Inc. were distributed.

Westland Mayor Tom Taylor, who was instrumental in the inception of the garden program in 1975, made a brief appearance at the meeting.

Periodically, we will be checking on our city farmers, bringing you up to date on their progress. If, at a later date, I mention John Doe's garden is doing great, and he turns out to be your neighbor, ask for a tomato.

Happy Easter, and please remember the senior members of your family.

Our thanks to Jean Beatty of Garden City, who just happens to be my mother-in-law, for entertaining us during lunch March 30. Her expert piano playing was sincerely appreciated. Next time we'll pass out song sheets, so we can have a good old-fashioned sing-along. Hurry back, Jean.

Congressman Ford named to position of whip-at-large Congressman William D. Ford of Michigan's 15th Congressional District was one of seven House Democrats appointed as national Whips-at-Large to work with the Congressional leadership in steering legislation through the House of Representatives.

Congressman Ford for the past two years had served as Democratic Zone Whip for Michigan. Promotion to the national whip post was made by the House Majority Leader Jim Wright, who praised Ford as a "creative, thoughtful legislator, highly respected by his colleagues".

Wright said the appointment of Congressman Ford and the other national whips would broaden the base of House leadership and help promote new ideas in the leadership meetings.

The function of the whips is to help keep the leadership abreast of the thinking of House members and to promote support for Democrat programs.

Congressman Ford, now in his seventh term in the House, is chairman of the Post-Secondary Education Subcommittee of the Committee on Education and Labor, on which he has served since coming to Congress.

He is a vice-chairman of the Conference of Great Lakes Congressmen and of the Democratic Study Group. Last year he was appointed to the White House Conference on Libraries, after serving several years as a Congressional Advisor to UNESCO.

Congressman Ford is a former chairman of the Agricultural Labor Subcommittee, ranking member of the Subcommittee on Elementary, Secondary and Vocational Education, and also serves on the Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

Earlier this year, in recognition of his work for education, Congressman Ford was awarded an honorary doctorate by Eastern Michigan University.

Bill would reform state retirement fund

Ex-legislators and certain other former public employees would be prevented from drawing state retirement fund benefits while working for the state or in public schools, under legislation introduced by Senate Majority Leader William Faust.

Under Faust's pension reform legislation, practically all state employees would have to defer payment of retirement benefits earned under one plan while working in other positions which entitled them to benefits under a second state pension plan. Those affected by the legislation would include judges, school teachers and legislators.

Those persons, however, would be able to receive two pensions upon retirement from the second position.

"The intent of this legislation is to prevent what some persons consider an abuse of state taxpayers' money," Faust said. "By keeping more cash on hand longer, the state will be in an infinitely better position to pay the current bills which put pressure on everyone."

When retirement funds are budgeted, it is expected that they will be paid out at about the time recipients reach retirement age," Faust said. "And when those benefits are withdrawn sooner than expected, it burdens the state with a liability which cannot be anticipated with any certainty."

"Unfortunately, because of loopholes in present law, pensions have become a supplementary income for many state employees drawing a regular salary. This is not what the legislature intended in creating the state pension plans," Faust said. "The legislation I have proposed will ensure that state pension are drawn only at the time they are presumed to be needed — retirement."

Health information available on tape

Health and medical information can be obtained through a taped message playback system by telephone as the result of a public service program offered by Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan and the Wayne County Medical Society.

Called "Tel-Med," the program features 240 tape-recorded health messages. Brochures which describe the program and list the tapes are available free of charge from the Blue Cross-Blue Shield's public and community relations department at 600 Lafayette, Detroit 48226. They also are available free from hospitals, health service agencies and doctors' offices in the Detroit tri-county area.

The Tel-Med program works like this:

A person checks the brochure, selects a topic, calls the Tel-Med number (393-1976), and asks for the topic by number, which is designated in the brochure. Then the Tel-Med operator plugs in the tape (most run from two to five minutes).

Topics covered in the Tel-Med tapes include general categories of information such as pregnancy, birth control, smoking, first aid, drug abuse, alcoholism, digestive problems, care of teeth, cancer respiratory difficulties, heart disease and skin disorders.

Tel-Med is no substitute for professional care.

The service will be receiving calls weekdays from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. On Saturdays, calls can be made from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. On Sundays and holidays the service will be suspended.

For county construction projects

Panel to coordinate funding acquisition

Wayne County Commissioner Edgar L. Harris, chairman of the Public Works Committee, has established a special subcommittee to coordinate efforts of the board to acquire federal funding for capital improvement projects.

The Public Works Committee judges and recommends on all major construction projects, usually involving large dollar amounts that require at least partial federal financing, and which deserve special attention for maximum gain of federal dollars, Harris said.

Members of the subcommittee are Commissioners Conrad L. Mallett, the chairman, and Loretta Young, both from Detroit; and Royce E. Smith from Belleville.

Harris said the subcommittee will work closely with the County Board of Auditors, responsible for fiscal control in the county, and the Office of Program Development and Coordination, which generates new programs and funding from state and federal sources.

"Considering that our county lives under a constant threat of budget deficit, plus the reality that we truly need federal money for big projects, it only makes sense to designate a special group to become specialists in this area," Harris said.

He pointed out that some major projects under consideration for which the county needs money is a possible new Juvenile Court building and renovation of the present one.

renovation of the County General Hospital and Psychiatric Hospital in Westland, a new Medical Examiner's office and morgue, a new cooperative Extension Service facility and refurbishing the old county building in Cadillac Square in downtown Detroit.

"Projects like these require millions of dollars more than the county can afford, even without a potential $10-12 million deficit this year, so we need the specialized help that this subcommittee will provide," Harris added.

Harris, from Taylor, represents District 26, which includes Flat Rock, Rockwood, Romulus and part of Taylor, and Huron Township. He is serving his second full 2-year term on the Board of Commissioners.

Opinion hailed by Cawthorne

House Republican Leader Dennis O. Cawthorne has hailed an attorney general's opinion that a 1976 state law exempting certain home improvements from increased assessments is proper. He said the opinion should spur homeowners to "fix up and paint up" without fear of higher taxes as a result.

Cawthorne (R-Muskegon), who had requested the opinion after learning that the State Tax Commission apparently was advising local assessors to ignore the law, said the opinion agrees with his interpretation of the law and the State Constitution.

"This is the assurance which property owners need so they can go ahead and fix up and paint up this spring," he said. "This should enable the law to function as intended—that is, to encourage owners to keep their properties attractive and in good repair."

"The constitution gives the legislature power to define 'true cash value' as the basis for property valuations. In passing this act, the legislature decided that true cash value should not include up to $4,000 in normal repairs and maintenance. The problem arose when the State Tax Commission apparently decided on its own that this violates the constitutional requirement for uniform assessments. I would expect now that new orders would be issued to assessors to follow the law." A key to the opinion is that the term "true cash value" is not exactly the same as "fair market value", Cawthorne pointed out. The attorney general cited a 1974 State Supreme Court decision which permitted exclusion of expenses of sale from determination of true cash value and said there was no relevant distinction between that matter and the question of repairs and maintenance.

In stating that the legislature acted within its powers in the home improvement exemption law, the attorney general did note that "in implementing the provision, it is the assessor's duty to determine what the fair market value of the property would be if the named repairs were not made, not to deduct the cost of repairs from the assessment."

Cawthorne said this does not lessen the impact of the opinion.

Kelley claims utility misuse of fuel clause

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley has told the Michigan Public Service Commission (PSC) that Consumers Power Co. has made improper use of the fuel adjustment clause to raise its rates.

"We are filing exceptions with the PSC, asking it to direct Consumers Power to discontinue its practice of changing accounting procedures, which lead to higher customers rates without a proper hearing," Kelley said. He added that Consumers Power has increased the amount it receives through the fuel adjustment clause by changing on paper and without PSC approval, the salvage value of its spent nuclear fuel.

Previously, Consumers Power had assumed that the spent nuclear fuel from its Palisades and Big Rock Point nuclear generating facilities would have substantial salvage value. Kelley noted that since June 1976 the company has been claiming the spent fuel has no value whatsoever. This method of accounting increases the cost of fuel and triggers the automatic fuel adjustment clause, thereby raising the rates Consumers' customers have to pay, Kelley added.

"The company has failed to sustain its burden of establishing that this change is reasonable and appropriate," Kelley said. "The company's decision was made without any specific knowledge as to the treatment of salvage value at other nuclear plants in the United States."

"I also am urging the PSC to direct more extensive investigations, looking into reasons why the book value of Consumers Power's fuel has increased so much. In the last year, the company has doubled the book value of nuclear fuel which it passes on to ratepayers through the fuel adjustment clause."

Kelley's exceptions were filed in response to a proposed decision, issued by Administrative Law Judge Charles T. Sheridan. That proposed decision found the company's change in accounting procedures reasonable.

The PSC staff has taken the position agreeing with Kelley's argument that the change is not reasonable, and that the resulting rate increase should not be permitted. Kelley's argument calls for Consumers Power to refund $1,591,158 plus interest to its customers as a result of the overcharge on the fuel adjustment clause.

Scout Council has plans for new lodge at Camp Crawford

The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council has announced plans to construct a $112,000 lodge at Camp Crawford, a 50-acre campsite on Crane Road south of Ypsilanti.

The building, the first of this camp facility, will be approximately 3,200 square feet and contain kitchen, bathroom and activity rooms for 50 girls and adults. A four-room caretaker apartment will comprise one wing of the lodge.

Construction will be made possible by the promise last week of a $55,000 capital funds grant from the United Foundation of Detroit according to Mrs. Jo Stevens, Executive Director of the Council.

Design contracts were recently signed by Council representatives and Ann Arbor architectural firm Donald D. MacMullan & Associates following presentations by four area firms to the council's Camp Maintenance and Development Committee headed by Leonard McCoy of Ypsilanti.

Architectural drawings are scheduled to be completed by early summer, with ground breaking by midsummer and completion planned for early next year, Mrs. Stevens said.

The building will be designed to keep utility costs to a minimum, she added. Separation of the troop-wing and apartment wing visually and acoustically will be another design feature of the lodge.

Plans will also incorporate ideas from drawings of what camp should be submitted by Girl Scouts over the past six months.

The $55,000 grant is to be funded by a capital funds drive being conducted by the United Foundation of Detroit this spring in which only Wayne, Oakland and Macomb County companies, corporations and foundations will be contacted. Past United Foundation capital fund grants helped finance the 1974 construction of Allen House, a troop house at Camp Linden, and the underground electrical system there.

Of this year's $55,000 award, $40,000 has been allocated for the Camp Crawford structure, with the remaining going for improvements at Camp Hilltop in Ann Arbor and Camp Linden.

"For our Girl Scouts in the eastern part of our Council area, Camp Crawford is our most convenient campsite. The new lodge will make it possible for the camp to be enjoyed year-round," Mrs. Stevens added. "It will also be heavily used as a training center for our 3,000 adult volunteers."

Camp Crawford was purchased in 1962 from D.C. Quirk of Ypsilanti for $13,000. It was named for Miss Mildred Crawford of Ypsilanti, Roosevelt High School teacher and Girl Scout troop leader from 1928 until her death in 1956.

Dance group to perform at PNA Hall

The Galicia Song and Dance Ensemble of Detroit and the Polish Farmer's Society PNA Lodge 2984 are sponsoring "A Holiday in Eastern Europe" on April 17 from 3 to 9 p.m. at the PNA Hall located at Sumpter and Harris Roads in Belleville.

Ten groups from the Detroit and Windsor areas will represent their nationalities in traditional folk dances. Those performing will be in authentic folk costume of Ukrainian, Russian, Polish, Lithuanian, Latvian, Hungarian, Romanian, Bulgarian, Slovak and Macedonian descent. Each group will perform at a scheduled time during the afternoon and Galicia's orchestra, "Capella", will provide music for dancing between performances.

An international bazaar will feature many fine hand-crafted items for sale. A wide variety of traditional foods and beverages will also be available.

Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12 available from Maria Lehto at 461-6903 or Monica Wawrynec at 753-4108 or at the door.

Color it chocolate

Make and decorate your large Easter egg, then use it as a centerpiece and finally enjoy it as an Easter dessert or after-dinner snack. Flaked coconut and semi-sweet chocolate squares provide the foundation for a Chocolate-

Covered Easter Egg which is the most delicious taste of the day. What a lovely surprise for your loved ones! (Photo courtesy Baker's Angel Flake coconut.)

A chocolate beauty

One of the surest signs of the Easter season is the Easter egg, whether it be a real, tinted and hard-cooked; or a chocolate-covered candy egg. Eggs are very much a part of Easter, not only in America but in many other countries in the world.

The coloring of eggs for spring festivals is a very old custom and is believed to long predate Christianity. The Egyptians and the Persians, the Greeks and the Romans, all colored eggs. Many believe that warriors during the time of the Crusades brought back to Europe the custom of coloring and decorating eggs. Today, this custom continues and the entire Easter egg preparation is looked forward to by families, especially those with small children.

One of the most delicious and delightful Easter egg treats is a chocolate covered Easter egg. Here's a great idea for making one at home. This fondant-type confection filled with tender, moist Baker's Angel Flake coconut and covered with Baker's semi-sweet chocolate, will be the piece de resistance on Easter day. Make it especially attractive with a confectioners sugar glaze decoration and nestle it in a bed of softly tinted flaked coconut.

There's long been the puzzle of how the rabbit became associated with the delivery of the Easter egg in America. There have been several explanations offered, but if you display this masterpiece confection, the question will not be raised in your household. Your family will know that it was "Mom" who brought the egg!

Chocolate-Covered Easter Egg

- 1 pound unsifted confectioners sugar
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1 tablespoon light corn syrup
- 1 tablespoon softened butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon almond extract
- Dash of cream of tartar
- 1-one-third cups (about) flaked coconut
- 4 drops yellow food coloring
- 1 drop red food coloring
- Easy Chocolate coating
- Confectioners Sugar Glaze

Combine confectioners sugar, water, corn syrup, butter, vanilla, salt, almond extract and cream of tartar in a bowl and mix thoroughly. (Mixture will be crumbly.) Add coconut, mix until smooth, and shape into one large egg, about 7 inches long. Cut in half lengthwise; scoop out about 1-1/2 tablespoons at round end of each half, and place in small bowl. Blend in yellow and red food coloring. Return tinted mixture to egg halves. Press halves firmly together, pinching to seal edges. Cover entire egg with Easy Chocolate Coating, and let stand until chocolate is firm. Decorate egg with Confectioners Sugar Glaze and place on a nest of tinted flaked coconut, if desired. Makes 1-1/2 pounds.

Note: Candy may be shaped, wrapped and stored a day before coating with chocolate.

Easy Chocolate Coating. Partially melt 4 squares semi-sweet chocolate over hot water. Remove from water; stir rapidly until entirely melted. Let stand until cool (83 degrees).

Confectioners Sugar Glaze. Gradually add about 1 to 2 teaspoons hot milk or water to 1/2 cup sifted confectioners sugar, blending well, until of desired consistency.

Tinted Coconut. Mix 1/2 teaspoon milk or water with a few drops green food coloring. Add to 1-one-third cups (about) flaked coconut in a bowl; toss with fork to tint evenly.

Recipe, pattern file getting under motion at Romulus Library

A new service is being put into motion at the Romulus Public Library and will begin during National Library Week, April 17-23. Librarian Diane Hazen announces she is seeking recipes and clothing patterns for a new file the staff is organizing.

Patrons are being asked to submit their favorite tried-and-tested recipes by either writing or typing them and turning them into the desk. They also may be mailed to Diane at 11121 Wayne Road, Romulus, 48174.

A notebook will be compiled and recipes may then be duplicated, free of charge, on the copying machine. Patterns will be filed and checked out in the same manner as a book.

Those caring to submit items are asked to turn them in as soon as possible

Richard Coffelt among former band directors

In observance of the 50th anniversary of the Belleville High School Band, the Enterprise-Roman continues its coverage of the history of band directors who helped shape the musical group from 1927 to 1977.

Continuing the direction of the bands in Belleville after J. Ross Slabaugh departed in 1948 was Richard Coffelt. He came to the Van Buren School System after teaching for one year at Constantine, Mich. and one year in Ohio.

His home town was Van Wert, Ohio although he was born in Woodburn, Ind. He graduated in 1939 from Van Wert High School and worked afterwards to earn money to attend college. Awarded a tuition scholarship and workshop at Morehead State Teachers College in Morehead, Ky. in 1940, he was a student there until 1943 when World War II interrupted his education for three years.

He received his bachelor of arts degree with a double major in vocal and instrumental music in 1946. Working summers on an advance degree, he received his master's degree from the University of Michigan in 1950.

Coffelt gave up the direction of the high school band in 1957 to be junior high band director until 1971. He served Belleville schools for 23 years.

Quotes worth quoting...

"Never try to make anyone like yourself. You know, and God knows, that one of you is enough."

Ralph Waldo Emerson said it

Just 20 years ago

The Belleville High School Band is marking its 50th year anniversary. One of the most active members of the golden-year committee, which has been compiling the history of the musical organization, is Richard Coffelt, a former

Spring Enrollment Event held by ABWA

The American Business Women's Association, Huron Valley Charter Chapter of Ypsilanti held its Spring Enrollment Event this week at Nickerson's Tin Lizzie Restaurant in Belleville.

Mrs. Caroline Hesson, chapter president, opened the event by welcoming the guests and expressing hope that they would want to join the association. She introduced the executive board: Mrs. Edith Davenport, vice president; Rosemary E. Shinn, recording secretary; Rose Adiska, corresponding secretary, and Marilyn Dennis, treasurer. She said that the event focuses on the theme of growth and the program will highlight the benefits of becoming a member of American Business Women's Association (ABWA), at which time she introduced the event chairperson, Mrs. Bunny Hardy.

Mrs. Hardy outlined the scope and goal of ABWA. She said that the American Business Women's Association is an educational association presently in its 28th year, ABWA's first chapter, Pioneer Chapter, was installed in Kansas City, Mo. on Nov. 21, 1949. There were 50 chapter members. At the end of the first year, there were 1,232 members and 21 chapters in nine states and the District of Columbia. Since then, the association has grown steadily.

The American Business Women's Association now has more than 1,400 chapters and 88,000 members in all 50 states and Puerto Rico. The objective of ABWA as an educational association is to "promote the professional, educational, cultural and social advancement of business women".

Mrs. Hardy then introduced Mrs. Willene Taylor, Mrs. Evelyn

Bachman and Mrs. Rose Adiska who performed a humorous skit.

The skit was in the form of a soap opera with three characters: Mary, whose life is boring; Helen, Mary's friend, and a counselor. The scene opened with Mary and Helen sitting at a breakfast table drinking coffee. Mary was despairing over her life, how boring it was. Helen suggested seeing a counselor. The counselor prescribed that Mary join the American Business Women's Association.

The counselor then went on to outline the benefits of becoming an ABWA member: it can give friendships, develop poise and confidence; it can guide toward development of greater professional skills and personal achievement; it offers the pleasure of attending dinner meetings each month and to hear guest speakers from the business community; new things are learned all the time — the National Headquarters of ABWA serves as a reference center for its members;

ABWA supports education through its scholarship program for women.

Last year, local chapters provided nearly one million dollars in scholarships and the Association's national scholarship fund awarded $185,000. The Huron Valley Charter Chapter has awarded four local scholarships.

It also offers a monthly magazine called "Women in Business," each issue contains all sorts of helpful articles that concern various elements of a woman's life...from work to home...from politics to travel; in travel, ABWA every spring and fall holds regional and national conventions and members from all over the country meet for the national convention in places like New Orleans and Las Vegas. This year, ABWA's national convention in October meets in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Mary suddenly becomes vibrant and excited at the prospect of joining ABWA and Helen decides to join also.

After the performance, finger sandwiches, cheese and crackers coffee, tea and cake were served.

The new members joined the Association with four more seriously considering it.

Storer Girls Camp has new director

Clark L. Ewing, Executive Director of YMCA Storer Camps, located in the Irish Hills near Jackson, has named Gina Whitehead to the position of Director of Storer Camp for Girls. She succeeds Rosemary Mayes of Livonia who held the position for four years.

Miss Mayes, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Whitehead of 11777 Horning Rd., Brooklyn, Mich.,

Morgan's new grandson born in Germany

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Morgan of Romulus Street, Romulus, are proud to announce the birth of a grandson, Michael Alexander Morgan, on March 7 in Frankfurt, Germany.

Michael, who weighed an even seven-pounds, is doing very nicely in his home-away-from-home in Europe.

His parents are S-Sgt. and Mrs. Steve Morgan, who have been stationed in Germany for the past four years. They plan to return to the United States on April 13 of this year at which time Sgt. Morgan will be assigned to Fort Knox, Ky. where he will be acting as an instructor for the U.S. Army.

Mrs. Morgan (Lorraine), the new mother, is formerly of Samoa.

graduated from Columbia Central High School in Brooklyn in 1964, having spent her early years in Goshen, Ind. In 1968 she earned a bachelor of science degree from Michigan State University in secondary education, specializing in English and social studies. In 1975, she was awarded a masters in educational psychology at MSU.

The new camp director brings a wealth of experience in working with people to her position, having taught 10th grade English two years at Columbia Central, and American high school students in Central African Republic and Port-au-Prince, Haiti, for a year and a half. In addition, she has taught four years in Fowlerville, Mich. at the Baptist School, where she served as assistant administrator.

She has spent many years in summer camping with church, Girl Scout and Campfire Camps in addition to staff experience in camps in New York state as well as in Michigan. She has served as horsemanship director at Storer Camps as well as teaching with the outdoor education staff in the current year on the 1,000-acre camp owned and operated by the YMCA of Greater Toledo.

Storer Camp for Girls opened in 1968 and each year serves over 900 girls from 1st through 11th grades in summer camping with a wide variety of camp programs. Any girl may attend YMCA Storer Camp for Girls, Y membership is not required.

Information on dates and fees is available at (517) 536-8706 or (419) 243-1171. Camp opens June 26 and runs through August 26 this year.

Couple back from Florida in time for Easter-at-home

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Atwell of Denton Road returned from Florida recently after spending a couple of months with their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Edwards of Fort Lauderdale. While in Florida they visited Michigan friends, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Dixon and Mr. and Mrs. James Wilkins in Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Warblow of Van Boarn Road are the proud parents of a son, Barry Max, born March 24. His arrival has made some happy grandparents, namely, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Warblow of Van Boarn Road and Mr. and Mrs. Casper L. Sears of Martinsville Road, as well as great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Richards of Belleville Road.

Max Richards of Belleville Road is recovering nicely from his recent illness.

Jae Soon Song and their wee son, Paul. While in California they visited Universal Studios and Marine Land.

Recently the Ann Arbor Senior Citizens group sponsored a 10-day trip to New Orleans, La. Those from the Belleville Area Senior Citizen Club who made the trip were Velma Kulzer, Juanita Akers, Marguerite Kouba, Betty Taylor, Marion Hartwick and Mr. and Mrs. William Krause.

Dinner guests, this past Sunday, of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hatch of Church Street were their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCoy and their daughter, Amy. Amy was on her way back to Michigan State University after spending spring vacation with her parents.

Jeffrey Saunders was a guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Saunders of Liberty Street, for the past two weeks. He has returned home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Saunders to Fraser, Mich.

Overnight guests of Mrs. Henry Sager this past Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. William Deroo of Holland, Mich.

Mrs. Helen Riggs of Pottsville is visiting the Albert Riggs family of Haggerty Road. To Mrs. Riggs it is like coming home since this location was her home many years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig Stabnau of Greylock Street helped their son, Erick, celebrate his fourth birthday by having his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stabnau and Mrs. Jean Schell, in for dinner this past Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Miller of Garden City called on their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Miller of Second Street, this past Saturday afternoon.

In writing of the Harold Harrises trip to Florida in last week's issue, their traveling companions, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ritter of Bedell Street, (Harold's brother-in-law and sister), were inadvertently omitted.

They, too, stopped in Nashville, Tenn. to visit their brother, Daryl Harris; the Walter Nollfs at Zephyrhills and the Earl Lindermans in Fort Lauderdale, and spent several days in Daytona.

The Rev. David Fearon and his assistant, Joseph Webster of Sudbury, Ont., Canada, were houseguests the week of March 20 at the home of the former's aunt, Ms. Sue Fearon of Robson Road. Ms. Janet Miller of Taylor was a dinner guest on March 23.

MR. AND MRS. GERRY CANEJO

Silver wedding day marked by Canejos

Gerry and Joretta Canejo have spent all but six months of their 25 years of married life in the Romulus area where they reside at 16321 Dodge Road. Mrs. Canejo was Joretta Carter of New Boston when she exchanged vows with her husband on March 22, 1952.

On March 19 the couple was feted at a silver wedding anniversary party at Morgan Manor in Romulus. Hostesses at the reception were Mrs. Canejo's three sisters, Bea Miller of Westland, Marge Ballantyne of Romulus and Kathy Mc New of Wayne.

Fifty guests congratulated the honored pair including eight members of their wedding party: best man Jack Canejo; maid of honor Bea Miller; bridesmaid Marge Ballantyne; ushers Raymond Carter, Noble Carter and Bernie Miller; flowergirl Kathy McNew and ringbearer Larry Carter. Others at the party were from Ann Arbor, Dundee, Westland, Wayne, Grosse Isle, New Boston and Romulus.

The two-tiered wedding cake, which was topped with the ornament from the original cake, was made by the Canejo's daughter, Cindy. The couple's other children are Terry and Chris both of Romulus; Mrs. Michael (Jean) Bliss of Lincoln Park; and Jeff and Bruce.

The owner of Canejo Trucking, Inc., the "bridegroom" is mayor pro tem of Romulus. He is a member of the Romulus Kiwanis Club and along with his wife belongs to the Democratic Club and St. Paul's Lutheran Church of New Boston.

Romulus rancher donates facilities to 4-H Handicappers

Six-year old Brian Shrewsbury of Westland is among those looking forward to horseback riding lessons this spring. He has limited ability trying to balance a 2-wheel bicycle but no difficulty handling the reins of Snowball in the arena of the Circle Ranch.

There are 45,000 handicapped youngsters in Wayne County under 21 years of age with very little sports therapy available to them. One program, initiated last fall by the Wayne County 4-H, provides emotional and physical benefits to children with weekly horseback riding lessons and a stable management course.

Ede Valiquette, specially trained at the Chef Center for the Handicapped in Augusta, Mich., donated her time as instructor and will return this spring with another teacher, Cathy Bies of Belleville.

It is important to realize that the handicapper DOES learn to ride; that he is not just taken for a ride. If at all possible the stable management course includes having the student groom his horse and do various other tasks associated with horses.

It is more than a novel experience. The student learns a skill and begins to participate in a sport. His coordination, balance, muscle tone and perceptual motor skills are improved through this enjoyable therapy.

When on a horse the handicapper is 10-feet off the ground and by means of the horse's legs can go wherever he or she would like to go. For the kids in a wheelchair or on crutches this is a terrific accomplishment.

The horse, like a person, needs to be talked to and touched and cared for and loved. By needing each other they help each other. The response between the retarded and crippled children and the horses thrilled the 30 volunteers.

The use of the Circle R Ranch on Inkster Road in Romulus is again donated by owner Charles Riddle. The Wayne County 4-H Handicappers Program will begin April 22. Interested volunteers may call 721-6576.

a reminder of Jesus' suffering.

On Good Friday, April 8, a 1-hour service beginning at 1 p.m. will be held. From 2 p.m. that day until 6 p.m. on Easter morning a Prayer Vigil is planned. For 40 hours, the church, its members and all people will be continually lifted up in prayer as they await the fulfillment of the Gospel.

Finally on Easter Sunday, April 10, the United Methodist Youth Fellowship will provide the leadership for the Sunrise Service at 7 a.m., a service built around the play, "A Resurrection Faith."

An Easter breakfast will follow at 8 a.m., also provided by the Youth with some help from others. Sunday School will meet as usual at 10 a.m. with church coming at 11 a.m. the message for Easter being "He has risen!"

At that and all services, the pastor will be The Rev. Susan K. De Foe.

your bridal information

Want to share that "special day" with those who are unable to be present in person for your wedding ceremony? We'll write the details of your wedding in story form for you — and at no charge — if you'll simply follow a few guidelines.

The Belleville Enterprise and The Romulus Roman offer bridal questionnaires for you to fill out as well as engagement forms for announcing the "start of it all." These forms include all the pertinent questions involved with your marriage or betrothal.

Forms may be picked up at our office, 116 Fourth St., Belleville (we're in the old Township Hall, side entrance) anytime during the week between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

We will also mail forms if a telephone request is made. Call Lee Smith, Suburban Living Editor, at 697-9191.

Anniversary forms available

For those marking wedding anniversaries with celebrations and parties, we have special anniversary forms to fill out. The questionnaires include all the pertinent information needed for putting a story together.

If you are planning to celebrate an anniversary and would like your friends to read about it in The Belleville Enterprise of The Romulus Roman, simply stop by our office at 116 Fourth St., Belleville, or telephone the Suburban Living Editor, Lee Smith, at 697-9191 to have a form mailed out.

We will be happy to accept photographs if they meet with our specifications. Please include one if it's available.

There is no charge for this service.

Tornadoes

If 1977 is an average year, the State of Michigan can expect 12.1 tornadoes this year. And the first ones are likely to come this spring.

While nothing can stop these tornadoes, experts have learned several life-saving facts from past tornadoes, including the nation's worst flock of storms in April 1974. In fact, findings from the rubble in 13 states ravaged by 148 tornadoes on April 3-4 of that year have changed the thinking of experts on several points.

For instance, the southwest corner of a building probably is the wrong place to be during a tornado. Engineers who sifted the wreckage in Xenia, Ohio, and other cities learned that tornadoes moving southwest to northeast blow south and west walls into buildings and north walls away from the structures.

That discovery deflates the long-time belief that a tornado's greatest threat is an explosion of walls outward, created by sudden differences in air pressure. It's still a threat, but driving winds are equally or more devastating, according to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA).

Where then should a person seek shelter? It depends on where you are, the experts say.

Believe it or not, you will be safer lying face down in a ditch than you will be in a car or truck, mobile home, under a large span roof, or in a room or hallway with lots of windows.

Vehicles literally can be smashed against trees, poles and buildings. If there is time, a motorist can drive away from the storm at right angles from its path. If there isn't time, leave the vehicle and lie in a ditch.

Mobile homes "offer no opportunity for occupant protection", according to engineers. Residents should leave their mobile homes and go to a substantial structure. If there is no shelter nearby, they also should lie flat in a ditch, preferably outside the mobile home park.

Buildings with large roofs supported by walls — such as gymnasiums or auditoriums — often are lethal during tornadoes. Load-bearing walls can be blown in, especially with the lifting effect a tornado creates on a large roof. The roof generally crashes down to the floor. If the building has no shelter, get outside in a ditch.

Rooms with windows and doors are subject to the shattering action of a tornado. Glass, dirt and debris of all kind "act like shrapnel", according to researchers. And corridors in line with a tornado's path can turn into wind tunnels for the shrapnel.

In buildings with a lot of glass, the most protected spot is in the basement, although not necessarily the southwest corner. The next best shelter would be in interior corridors perpendicular to the path of the storm.

If you're in a public building or large office building, there should be signs pointing out shelter areas. Interior corridors or small interior rooms on the lowest level possible are best.

If you're at home when a tornado warning is issued, the safest place is the basement, according to NOAA. If there is no basement, go to a small enclosed interior area such as a closet or bathroom on the lowest floor or the house. If there is no enclosed space, go outside, lie in a ditch and cover your head.

The best protection of all is a storm cellar or an underground reinforced excavation. Such a shelter should be stocked with water in an airtight container, canned or sealed foods that need no refrigeration, first aid kit, family medicine, blankets, flashlights, battery-powered radio and possibly a covered container to use as an emergency toilet.

Even without an underground shelter, a homeowner can make the same preparations in his own home. The supplies should be placed where the family will take shelter during a storm.

One of the most hopeful findings from the 1974 tornado research is the fact that the storms would have caused a record number of deaths except for improvements in tornado watches and warnings, in communications and community preparedness efforts.

As it was, 315 persons were killed and almost 6,000 injured in those 13 states. Investigators believe the toll would have been much, much higher except for the improved tornado alert system.

The point is this: Listen for weather advisories and, when a tornado threatens, take immediate action. It can save your life.

What is a tornado?

What is a tornado? It's a storm within a storm, created by swirling clouds. As the winds rotate, a hollow cavity forms in the center where centrifugal forces create a partial vacuum. As condensation collects around the rotating winds, a pale funnel becomes visible, stretching from the clouds to the ground.

As the storm moves — at a rate of zero to 70 miles per hour — the funnel picks up dirt and debris; this darkens the color. The typical tornado path is about a quarter mile wide, and the storm usually travels less than 16 miles.

Tornadoes occur at any time of the year. They usually form in heavy cumulonimbus clouds on warm, humid days with unstable temperature conditions. Meteorologists believe tornadoes are formed by both thermal and mechanical forces, with thunderstorm electrical charges another possible factor.

The thermal theory holds that the tornado is formed by the imbalance created when cool air overrides warm air; the mechanical theory is that tornadoes are formed by converging rotary winds.

Although tornadoes occur in many areas of the world, the central plains of the United States is the primary target area.

Tornadoes are generated more frequently where cool dry air from the jet stream overrides a thick layer of warm, moist air. For this reason, tornadoes occur most frequently in the central Gulf states in February and March, in the southeast Atlantic states in March and April, the southern plains states in May and the northern plains and Great Lakes in June.

Tornadoes drop off as the cold air does, and the tornado frequency rate declines rapidly from June through January. More than half of the tornadoes the United States experiences each year take place between April 1 and June 30.

Mathematically, the chances of a community being hit twice by tornadoes is minute, but it does happen. Oklahoma City has been hit 26 times in the last 83 years. Codell, Kan., is a town with reason to fear the date of May 20 ... tornadoes struck the town on May 20 in 1916, 1917 and 1918.

The witching hour for tornadoes is not midnight, it's late afternoon. Close to 25 percent of all tornadoes occur between 4 and 6 p.m. More than 80 percent occur between noon and midnight.

Tornadoes destroy by the combined action of strong winds and the partial vacuum in their center. As they pass over a building, the winds (the greatest destroyer) rip at the outside while the pressure drop in the "eye" can cause explosive pressures inside the building.

The building collapses and the tornado picks up and carries off the debris, often several tons of it. A Minnesota tornado during the '30s picked up an 83-ton railroad car and its full complement of passengers and deposited them in a ditch 80 feet away. There is little protection against a tornado — only precaution.

Do you know safety signals?

The tornado season has begun and will be with us until the early fall. Since precaution is the only protection against tornadoes, it is best to know the safety signals.

TORNADO WATCHES are issued by the National Weather Service when storm conditions exist that may spawn a tornado. This does not mean tornadoes have been spotted; it means you should be looking for tornadoes or violent storm conditions, but otherwise not interrupt your regular business. Report any visible tornadoes to local authorities.

TORNADO WARNINGS are issued by the National Weather Service when a tornado has been spotted. The warning will include information on the time of detection, the area through which the tornado is expected to move and how long the tornado is expected to be in the area. Persons in the path of the storm should take immediate safety precautions.

COMMUNITY WARNING SIGNALS for approaching natural disasters usually are steady 3- to 5-minute siren blasts. Check with your local authorities about such local warning systems.

Picking up pieces after the big 'blow'

The tornado has gone and you need help putting things back together. What's your first step?

The nation's largest insurer, State Farm Fire and Casualty Co., recommends a call to your insurance agent as one of the earliest moves.

Give him a description of the damage to your property with as much detail as possible.

Insurance firms usually rush disaster claims teams to severely stricken areas.

They try to help the hardest hit people first, so your agent needs to know how much help you need.

If damage isn't total, take steps to protect what's left of your home and furnishings. Board up windows and cover furnishings, or move your furnishings to storage. Keep receipts of these expenses because most insurance companies reimburse you for these costs.

Don't sign contracts for house repairs before checking the builder's credentials. Many communities that have been struck by tornadoes also have been struck by fly-by-night contractors. They offer a quick and cheap job, which often turns out to be shabby. The contractor is long gone — along with your money — and you're still in need of repairs.

Deal with local contractors, people you or a friend or neighbor know or trust. If you don't know any, the insurance claims people may be able to help you find reputable contractors to get repair and rebuilding work started.

If you are forced to leave your house, have a family member stay near your property until the National Guard or other law enforcement people arrive to protect your property against theft or looting.

If you have problems finding a semi-permanent shelter, the Red Cross and Salvation Army often set up temporary shelters in public buildings. Look for a short-term lease for apartments or rent a trailer to stand on your property where you can supervise repair work. Again keep the receipts for extra living expenses. They often are reimbursed through your insurance coverage.

Some insurance companies will advance money for food, clothing and shelter, if you must leave your home. Residents without insurance should contact government agencies such as the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration for help.

Make a complete list of destroyed or damaged contents as soon as possible. The biggest single problem in settling claims is verifying losses. The sooner your inventory is complete, the sooner your claim can be paid.

Remember that you may claim a tax deduction if the loss to your home and personal possessions is greater than your insurance coverage. And keep your inventory for tax purposes.

"Red Cross is an organization of physical action, of instantaneous action; it cannot await the ordinary deliberation of organized bodies if it would be of use to suffering humanity."

BONANZA

Associated Newspapers

Restaurant Review

by Lee Smith, ANP's Roving Connoisseur

If you like running into people you know and table hopping in restaurants, hie on down to Bonanza in the heart of Lakewood Shopping Center located at I-94 and Rawsonville Road. It's the place you're most likely to share salad bar activities with a familiar face.

That salad bar, by the way, is one of the biggest drawing cards to the eating house since you're allowed limitless refills. And usually where there's quantity, you won't find quality. Not so in this case where the variety results in one finely constructed salad. Choose from wells of fresh cherry tomatoes, sliced cucumbers, garbanzo beans, bacon bits, homemade croutons, shredded onions, 3-bean salad and cole slaw. Six dressings, including diet Italian, complete the buffet picture.

Salad is included with all entrees as are French fries or baked potato and Texas toast. Salad bar, solo, is $1.29. Combining it with a sandwich, it's a mere 69 cents (all you can eat.)

Those sandwiches can be paired with soup as well (but only at lunchtime.) For 29 cents, a cup can be filled with chicken noodle, bean with bacon or chili soup; on Fridays, try clam chowder.

Char-broiled chopped beef or veal (89 cents) grilled cheese or fish (69 cents) come on Texas toast for a really thrifty noon meal.

We visited the steak house last Thursday, chatted with half a dozen friends and enjoyed a visit with co-manager Jim Seghi. He and Mike Burke, his counterpart, are in charge of some 39 employees, mostly students from Belleville, Lincoln and Ypsilanti High Schools.

Earlier in the year we had met Ray Seghi and his brother, Bob, (who's been in the restaurant business most of his life), co-owners along with Duane Haskins. The threesome currently operate as many eateries; their other Bonanzas in Livonia and Southfield having been opened for some nine years.

Their Belleville-based Bonanza has seating (booths and tables) for 170 patrons; a non-smoking section being the newest addition. The private Sirlain room can service up to 52 people for banquets, meetings, showers, rehearsal dinners, parties. For reservations you have only to call 485-1839.

Number 2 (rib eye to the layman) is the house's biggest seller at $2.09; chopped steak (No. 4) runs a close second at $1.99.

We opted for the No. 1 strip steak which came hot and tasty and as requested — medium and medium well. In lieu of potato, I was offered either cottage cheese (which was nice and creamy), pudding, jello or soup.

Geri, who was hostess for the evening, saw that our coffee was constantly replenished and took the time to exchange a few pleasantries.

Despite heaping salads and our filling entrees we managed strawberry pie because we know it's made on-the-spot each day with whole, fresh berries as a base for its delicious strawberry glaze' coat and swirls of whipped topping.

Other noteables from the dessert counter include two more homemade gems — cheese cake with the same fresh berry capper and a special walnut torte which a local resident, Margaret Stein, bakes and brings in each day. Sweet tooth addicts (such as I) have a dozen goodies to decide from as embellishment for their meal.

On Mondays Bonanza caters to senior citizens — offering beverages free of charge and three specially-priced dinners: veal or beef chopette, both for $1.39, or petite strip steak at $1.69. Other diners can also request the bonus-priced trio served all day, 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Unlike many big franchise businesses, Bonanza has made itself part of the community. Not only are regular customers on a first name basis with Mike and Jim but they are assured their food must measure up or be returned.

Hundreds of the area's elementary school kids have been taken on tours of the restaurant and later served special 79 cent lunches — hamburgers or hot dogs with French fries and a free lollipop.

The management has also entertained members of the community at a gala second anniversary party and just recently donated 10 percent of its net sales for four days to Grace Baptist, Bethany Baptist and Emmanuel Baptist Churches.

If you're looking for people you know and that "down home" feeling, you'll find it at Bonanza.

'Never Can Tell' joins Hilberry Theatre lineup

One of the most popular plays written by George Bernard Shaw, "You Never Can Tell", will officially join the repertory of Wayne State University's graduate theater, the Hilberry, when it premieres at 8:30 p.m. April 20.

"You Never Can Tell" will continue in the repertory through the season, which closes May 21, alternating with "Othello", closing May 5, "Moby Dick-Rehearsed", closing May 20, and "The Lion in Winter", closing May 4. In response to box office demand, the comedy about Henry II and Eleanor of Aquitaine was extended to include two 8:30 p.m. performances April 27 and May 4.

Shaw wrote "You Never Can Tell" to satisfy the commercial demands of London's West End theatre managers at the turn of the century. They wanted "a comedy, with fun, fashionable dresses, music, eating and drinking in stylish surroundings, love scenes, family tangles and a comic waiter", author Ruth Adam said. "Shaw supplied them all, but he also managed to slip a little light-hearted discussion of social problems," she added. The spotlight definitely is on romance and not society's problems. "He wrote it at a time when he was falling in love with his future wife, and it is one of his happiest plays."

The story centers on the Clandon family—a mother, two daughters and a son—who have returned to England after 18 years in Madiera. The reason for their leaving and returning to a certain English seaside resort, and the unexpected romantic entanglements which follow, allow Shaw to release a fusillade of wit and laughter.

The romantic leads, Valentine and Gloria, are played by one of the Hilberry's young married couples, Richard and Monique Morgan. The irrepressible twins, Dolly and Philip, are portrayed by Suzanne Leslie Stark and David Sederholm, while Betty James will appear as their mother, Mrs. Clandon.

"You Never Can Tell" will be the first play directed by Robert Emmett McGill at the Hilberry. A native Detroit, he is the newest member of the WSU theater staff.

Set design is by Russell Smith, costumes by Daniel Thomas Fiel and lighting by James a Hatfield.

For reservations and ticket information, contact the Hilberry Theater Book office, located at the corner of Cass and Hancock, by calling 577-2972.

A 1:30 p.m. May 11 benefit performance of the Shaw play will be help fund the Zedakah Club's work with indigent senior citizens. Tickets, available by calling Deena Fishman at 645-9230, include lunch and transportation to the theater.

As April 1 approaches, a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love and license plate tabs. Despite urgings from the Secretary of State each year to get the tabs early, the lines start to form about a week before the deadline, and

Kaminskis ends long career

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Vitold Kaminskis, the dean of the area high school baseball coaches, has bowed out as head coach at Belleville High School. After nearly 2½ decades as the Tiger skipper, Kaminskis is leaving the prep coaching scene.

And Dan Fisher, who at one time played for Kaminskis' teams at the high school, was named the new head coach.

"It's sort of strange," Fisher said. "You know I once played for Vit back in 1955, and now I'm replacing him."

Fisher isn't new to the coaching scene. He has handled junior varsity ball clubs for 15 years, but it is his first head coaching assignment on the high school level.

"Vit had a way with his players, he always got the most out of them," said Fisher. "and his teams were always respected — I only hope I can do equally well."

Fisher's coaching baptismal was scheduled for Tuesday against Suburban 8 Conference rival, Edsel Ford. The "rookie" Tiger skipper feels his team will be ready.

"However, weather had hampered our training — as it probably has the rest of the area teams," Fisher said, "but the kids are really enthusiastic and I'm really optimistic about our season."

Though Fisher may be hoping to field a contender, his colleagues in the league over-looked the Tigers as a serious challenger for the championship.

"We had a league meeting the other day and the coaches picked Dearborn and Allen Park as the pre-season favorites," Fisher revealed. "We hope to surprise some of those people."

There are some indications that Fisher just may have the proverbial "Cinderella Team" in the league. Those indications are the return of senior pitcher Roy Rutherford, who is a much sought-after, all-around athlete. Rutherford recently signed a letter-of-intent to attend Eastern Michigan University.

A muscular 6-3, 210 pound athlete, Rutherford has all the credentials to help make the Tigers a winner this season.

Fisher also has three or four other hurlers set to go: Lance MacArthur, (Continued on Page 3)

Youth infusion bolsters Glenn's outlook

An infusion of fresh blood and an experienced pitching staff have convinced Norm Hoenes, the head baseball coach at Westland John Glenn, that it's time for a Rocket renaissance in the Northwest Suburban.

The Westlanders struggled through "the dark ages" the past two years, winning only seven of 22 a year ago (3-9 in the league), and with the return of an explosive pitching staff and some toughhitting seniors, Glenn is ready.

That is the gospel, according to Hoenes, a man who had coached Rocket teams for the past 10 years. "We're been down for the past two years," Hoenes said, "and, at least now I feel we're going to be competitive — as competitive as any."

Reminded that Livonia Franklin, the defending Northwest Suburban Conference defending champ, is considered by some sophists to be among the top 20 best teams in the nation, Hoenes said:

"I know — I read the article, but I feel our kids will give them — and anyone — a good battle."

Grabowski, an outstanding athlete who has won All-Area recognition in football, wrestling and baseball, will be tough at the plate. The big question mark is his knee — he sustained an injury a la "The Bird" Mark Fidrych and was operated upon.

"Grabowski will be handling the first base chores until we see how his knee holds," Hoenes noted. "He is an excellent ball player."

Walker, a third baseman, finished the 1976 campaign with a record-setting .464 batting average. That average clipped the record once held by former Wayne police officer Lenny Anderson who was the first Wayne officer killed in the line of duty three years ago.

Not only is Hoenes pleased with what he can field on offense, but his defense and a "much-improved pitching staff" bolsters his hopes. Craig Duncan, a senior righthander, will be the key to the Rocket hurling rotation. Duncan picked up five of the seven Glenn wins of a year ago. The Rockets also have a solid thrower in Bednarski, a senior.

Backing up the two will be pitchers Bill Robertson, a righthander, and southpaws Brian Martin and Rob Jedrusik. Martin made the team as a sophomore but failed to show up a year ago.

"We have the depth on the mound and elsewhere," Hoenes pointed out. "We didn't have that a year ago."

The Westlanders' infield looks good with Grabowski at first, Wayne Hodgkins, a senior at second and junior Doug Martin at short. Walker returns to third.

Outfielders include Craig Lenhoff, a holdover from a year ago, Jim Irwin, a standout in football and an outstanding defensive ball player and Brian Burke, who, along with Bednarski, will alternate in the other outfielder's slot.

Glenn was scheduled to launch the 1977 season Monday against out-of-the-league rival, Garden City West. The Rockets meet arch-rival, Wayne, for a doubleheader Saturday (noon).

Glenn will face Garden City East on April 22 for its initial league test. Coach Billy Joe Young's Panthers have a nine-game winning streak over the Rockets and Hoenes feels it's time to end East's monopoly.

And with this team he just may do that.

Good news from MHSAA

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

This should be a news story — but those infamous deadlines, and cramped space — dictates that the following item from Al W. Bush should get in somewhere and quick.

Bush, head of that august body, the Michigan High School Athletic Association, wants it to be known that all those complaints about undefeated high school football teams NOT making the playoffs didn't fall on deaf ears.

It appears that the MHSAA this week has approved a representative council recommendation to allow an expanded playoff format this season.

In a release to the news media, Bush announced, "That it was decided that the top two teams of each region in the football playoff would play each other in a quarter-finals to qualify into the semi-finals."

The past two playoffs, only the top teams in each class and each region qualified to play in the semi-final round.

The playoff dates have been set as follows: quarter-finals (Nov. 12); semi-finals (Nov. 19), and finals (Nov. 26).

If the system had been in effect a year ago, Westland John Glenn, with a perfect 9-0 record, would have had an opportunity to play in the post-season playoffs.

In other MHSAA revelations, the MHSAA announced that the boys' basketball tournaments will return to a three-week format beginning with the 1978 season. Presently, the quarter-finals, semi-finals and finals are staged within a span of 10 days.

Next year's district cage playoffs will be conducted between Feb. 27 and March 4, 1978 while the dates for the regionals are March 7 through 11 and the state championship will be held on March 17-18.

"Two classes will play semi-final games at one location and the other two classes will play at a second site on Friday, March 17."

"All the finals will be at one site on Sat., March 18," the release stated.

Betcha you're going to get mixed reaction from the basketball coaches about that one.

Though they fell short of their goal, the Westland Fire fighters annual muscular dystrophy benefit game against the Detroit Lions was labelled "an unqualified success," by Bob Stottlemeyer.

Stottlemeyer, who is a firefighter, helped put on the show at Westland John Glenn and the Lions lured the crowds.

"We had nearly a full house," Stottlemeyer said, "and fans helped us raise more than $1,000."

Stottlemeyer went on to praise the Lions "who really are a great bunch of men."

Who won the basketball game?

"Let's not talk about that," he quipped.

Ironically, Jerry Lewis, who has spearheaded the drive to raise monies to fight the dreaded MD disease, was also in town that night, however, Lewis wouldn't make it to the game.

"We contacted Jerry at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn where he was scheduled to perform," said Stottlemeyer, "but his manager said that Jerry couldn't make an appearance here in Westland because he wasn't feeling too well."

Lewis did send the group an autographed photo and thanked the participants in the game in helping in the fight against MD.

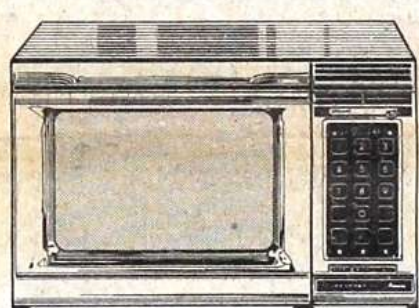

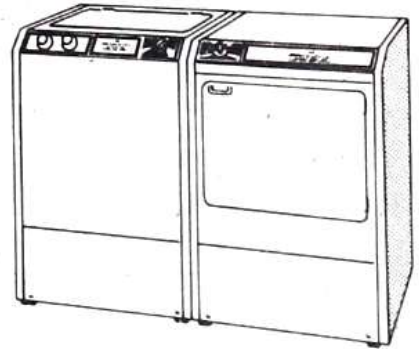

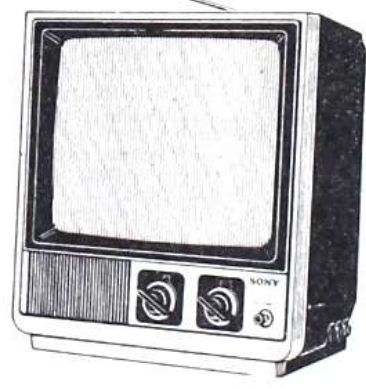

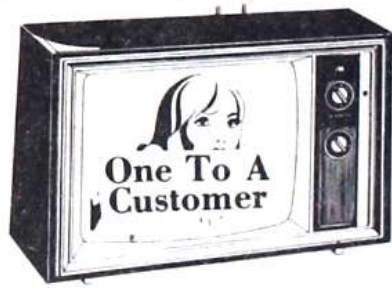

Fight against dreaded 'MD'

Flanked by two youths who know first hand what it is like to have muscular dystrophy, Westland firefighter Bob Stottlemeyer displays a photo of Jerry Lewis during the halftime of a benefit game against the Detroit Lions. The Lions and firefighters helped raise more than $1,000 to donate to help finding a cure for MD. Lewis, who has spearheaded the drive to find the cure, was in town last week and sent the photo over from the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn where he was performing.

All-Area honors 10 unselfish players

TIM COUCH

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Like vultures hovering over a prey, the college and university basketball scouts await eagerly for the high school harvest in this area. But they'll have to wait at least two years to get their hands on Belleville's spectacular Kelvin Patterson and Cherry Hill's omnipresent Floyd Simmons.

The two sophomores are among the 10 prep cagers honored on The Associated Newspapers' 1976-77 All-Area team. Joining the two are: Bill Crews (Wayne Memorial), Dan Diadiun (John Glenn), Cornell Grantham (Belleville), Al Lewis (Romulus), Tom Ellinghausen (Plymouth Salem), Jeff Phillips (Livonia Franklin), Tim Couch (Wayne Memorial) and Keith Steward (Cherry Hill).

This All-Star cast is good as individuals, best when they're seen as a team; these players have been accused of passing up good shots, handing off to their mates for the best shots.

Patterson personifies this type of player. Fast, deceptive and unselfish, Kelvin led Coach Tom Niemi's Tigers to a second place finish in the tough Suburban 8 Conference. He can improvise, and out of dissonance he creates harmony.

Diadiun is a repeat of a year ago. The 6-3 senior led the Rockets to the Northwest Suburban Conference championship, paving the way with a 15.3 ppg. scoring average and 11.8 rebounds per game. He was voted Glenn's Most Valuable Player for thesecond consecutive year and was an unanimous all-conference pick.

"Dan made all the difference in the world to us," said Gordie Davis, Glenn coach. "Earlier in the season he would get into early foul trouble and we'd have to pull him out — the team just didn't look the same."

Injured in the stretch of the 1975-76 season, Diadiun missed the final two weeks of the campaign. He still managed to finish his two year varsity career with 512 points, among the top scorers in the school's history.

Lewis is busy with post-season invitational tournaments. He played in the Concordia "shoot-out" and has been invited to a national tournament in Pennsylvania.

"I feel Al is one of the best guards ever to wear a cage uniform at Romulus," said Jesse Meriweather, Romulus coach. "He's intelligent and puts that intelligence to work on the court."

"He was our Rickey Green (University of Michigan All-American) and he carried us the entire season," Meriweather added.

Lewis wound up with a 22.0 scoring average in this his senior year. He also was credited with five assists and four rebounds per game. One fantastic stat is that the 6-0 senior started in all Romulus games for the past three seasons.

Phillips is a defensive specialist who is always on the prowl for a steal or loose ball.

"He is so intense with his play that in one game he hit the floor so hard trying to get a loose ball that he knocked himself out and was sent to the hospital."

"Jeff is a dedicated player — very quick and just waiting for you to make the mistake," said Bob Visser, Livonia Franklin coach.

But Phillips also knows what to do when he has the ball. Franklin, which utilized a deliberate offense, got 10.9 ppg. from its senior guard who hit on 51 percent of his field goals and 56 percent from the line.

Crews' nuance of shots, and excellent moves, along with helter-skelter drives toward the basket made him one of the most explosive cagers in Wayne's history. He scored 261 points, hitting on 41 percent of his shots from the field.

Bill has already made up his mind where he's going to further his athletic career. He signed a letter of intent to attend Eastern Michigan University.

"Crews is one of the finest offensive players we have had here in a long time," said Bill Hawley, Wayne's head coach. "He's just an all-around athlete."

Crews was also named to the first string all-conference team.

Couch provided Wayne with the floor leadership that made the Zebras an opponent to be respected. He averaged 12.4 points per game and sank a season high 31 points against Lincoln Park. In one stretch he made 34 consecutive free throws, setting a school record.

A deft ball-handler, many coaches considered Couch as one of the finest guards they had faced all year.

Ellinghausen is following in the footsteps of older brother, Jim, who won all-state honors a year ago, then headed for Ohio State on a scholarship. The 6-7 freshman made the college ranks in his first year.

"I would like to follow Jim to Ohio State," said Tom, a 6-4 junior who helped Plymouth Salem capture its fourth straight Suburban 8 Conference title, "however, I just haven't made up my mind."

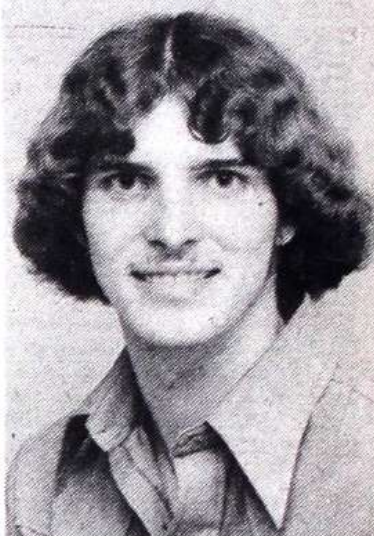

Tom averaged near 20 points per game and 10 rebounds in a 11-2 league and a 17-5 over-all season. A forward who was used in the pivot, Ellinghausen could be one of the premier prep cagers in the state next year.

Grantham made Belleville a winner. Out the first part of the season, he returned to find his teammates sporting a frustrating 1-4 record.

"Cornell joined us during the Holiday Tournament and helped us win," said Coach Tom Niemi, "and his unselfish play made us tough the rest of the way."

Simmons, a 6-1 sophomore, contributed 320 points and 243

If you are storing your car for two weeks to a month, here are some steps to better storage. Wash the car to remove excessive dirt and grime that might cause paint and chrome to deteriorate. If the weather is cold, be sure to check the level of the radiator coolant as well as its protective capacity.

Put the automatic transmission selector in park, or a manual transmission in first gear. Do not apply the parking brake. If left engaged, the parking brake may freeze in position.

Make your car more dependable for summer driving by replacing worn parts and accessories from the quality stock at KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan Ave., Inkster! Known as the "House of a Million Parts", we have everything you need to keep your foreign or domestic car running and looking at its best. Our complete machine shop service is available for turning brake drums, grinding valves, and rebuilding engines. Stop in any weekday from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., or on Saturdays until 5 P.M., or call us at 563-3894. Bank Americard and Master Charge are honored.

If the car is to be stored in a garage or carport, protect it with a securely tied plastic cover.

On the winner's dais is Romulus' Donald Grandison who cleared 6 feet, 2 inches in the high jump to capture a gold medal at the Ferris State College Track & Field Invitational. Grandison, a sophomore, beat out

McNally selected Coach of the Year

Balance scoring is a blessing that high school coaches dream about, but few enjoy during a season.

But the dream came true for Cherry Hill and Coach Dick McNally whose Spartans turned out 1528 points — a 74 ppg. average — during the 1976-77 high school season.

"It was the first time during my 16 year coaching career that all five of my starters ended the year in double figures," McNally said. "You only dream of things like that."

McNally's dream of a Tri-River Conference basketball championship also came true as the Spartans ended a 13-year title drought with their first conference cage crown. They finished the league year with a 12-2 record.

For his achievements, McNally has been selected as the The Associated Newspapers' Coach of the Year.

"Balance scoring — exceptional quickness — and hard-nosed defense are what made this team a winner," said McNally who completed his sixth year as the Spartans head coach. "When you have the type of balance as we did on this team, you consider yourself fortunate."

The 40-year-old McNally, a graduate of Albion College, will be hard to beat a year from now as nine of his players will be returning.

"We'd like to start the season right now," he quipped.

Rated as high as sixth in the Metro-West Class B rankings during the end of the season, Cherry Hill faced 12 Class A teams in the recently concluded campaign. They wound up with a 15-5 record.

"We have had outstanding ball players at the high school like Fowler (Bob), but this year's team will long be remembered for being just that — a team and not just individuals," McNally pointed out.

a senior righthander, Stan Price, a junior southpaw, Greg Cicotte, senior righthander, Jeff Smith, a senior righthander and Benny Collins, also a senior who throws righthanded are just a few.

Belleville could get some pitching help from Detroit Cass Technical High School in the way of transfer student William Hill who has seen action in the Detroit Public League. Hill is a senior and a southpaw hurler.

"We have enough pitchers," Fisher stressed, "the problem how is to find the two or three who will do the job for us."

Belleville's infield contains a blend of experienced players and young players up from last year's junior varsity team. Rutherford, when not on the mound, will hold down first base and behind him is Charlie Childers who is pushing for the starting job.

Then, at second, senior Don Walls, a holdover from a year ago is back while Collins and Rob Laney are dueling it out to get the short stop position. Dave Lundell or Paul Lauth will play third.

The Tigers have a good looking crop of outfielders including Jeff Smith, Jim Dyer, Dan Skyles, Mark Cornett, Bill Hill, Rich Dapsi and MacArthur while the catching assignments will be divided up between seniors Mark Stoelton and Dan Pavelka.

Belleville hasn't any games scheduled during the 10-day Easter Holiday recess, but Fisher says he will use that time to whip up his team for the gruelling conference wars.

No one is expecting Belleville to win that war — nonetheless don't be surprised if Fisher wins more battles than he loses this season.

Dawkins set 2 records

Stevenson retains swim title

Greg Dawkins is only a seventh grader, but the Stevenson swimmer turned in times that a senior high tanker would covet.

Dawkins broke two records to lead Stevenson to its third Wayne-Westland Junior High Swimming & Diving Championship.

Greg posted a 2:02.8 in winning the 200-yard freestyle, then came back with a 55.6 in the 100-yard freestyle for his second gold medal.

"He's a superb swimmer," said Coach Frank Higgins who won his second city title. "Greg has so much potential that one can only speculate what he can do."

"However, I would like to stress that the championship is a total effort by all of our team. We placed 27 men and women into the finals — and that's not including the relays," Higgins said. "I'm extremely proud of this team."

The league championship capped a perfect 8-0 season record for Stevenson which had beaten all of its rivals by at least 40 points.

Stevenson garnered three other first places. Jim Soulliere won the 100-yard individual medley in 1:08.7, then picked up his second first with a 1:08.9 in the 100-yard backstroke.

The Stevenson 400-yard freestyle relay of Rob Emerson, Soulliere, Doug White and Dawkins also won in a record-eclipsing 4:04.8 time.

Stevenson posted a convincing victory over its challengers, piling up 302 points for its first place. Marshall finished second (256), followed by Adams (174½), Franklin (166½) and Nankin Mills (84).

Marshall's Roger Dodd set the pace in the 50-yard freestyle, finishing with a 26.4, while teammate John Marshall established a meet diving record with 165.7 points.

Franklin won the 200-yard medley relay with Cathy Batterson, Bill Hargrove, Sharon Fontaine and Jenny Beckton with a time of 2:05.4, a record, while Miss Beckton covered the 50-yard butterfly in 31.8. Andy Bawinski's 1:14.2 was the best time for the 100-yard breaststroke.

21 wrestlers advance to state championship

Next stop for the Wayne-Westland Wolverine and the Huron Valley wrestling clubs is the state wrestling championships at Grand Rapids.

The state tourney will be held this weekend. The Wolverines qualified eight and Huron Valley got 13 through the tough U.S. Kids Wrestling Federation Regional qualifying round held Saturday in Ypsilanti.

Among those who survived the regional test from the Wolverine club included John Godzina (55), Mike Conboy (61) and Dan Schimansky (61) — all in the 8 and under age group; Tom Forchoine (95), 9-10 year olds; Keith Zimmerman (135), 13 and 14 year olds and Robb Paciocco (90), Don Forchoine (110) and Melvin Richendollar (110), in the 11-12 year olds.

The Huron Valley club will be represented by the following wrestlers in the state finals: Jerry Umin (70) who placed first in the 11-12; Sam Farrugia, (95) who also placed first in the 13-14 age group and Tim Teague, gold medalist at 175 in the 13-14 group.

Huron Valley's runners-up included Rick Umin (80), 11-12; and Dave Melton (110), in the 13-14 classification. Third places were awarded to Kevin Cornett (72), 8-and-under; Bruce Nigg (64), and Kenny Cornett (75), 9-10 year olds; Kurt Dame (95) also 9-10.

In the 11-12 age group, thirds went to Greg Summatt (100) and Mike Umin (95), while Jeff Umin (75) earned a fourth place medal in the 9-10 age bracket.

Huron took 17 wrestlers to the regionals and 13 of them qualified for state. The team is coached by Robert Farrugia.

The regional event pitted qualifiers from the southern part of the state below the Saginaw and Bay City areas.

"2 days a month helps pay for our 4 on the floor."

"The pay wasn't the only reason I had for joining the Naval Reserve, but I've got to admit that monthly check comes in mighty handy. Especially in this day and age."

Good pay. It's a good reason to join the Naval Reserve. But it's only one way of making your experience count.

When you join the Naval Reserve, you'll also get the satisfaction that comes from doing an important job. And doing it well. If you left active duty with a critical rating, we'll try to get you back in the Reserve and working in that same rating. You'll do the job you were trained to do, with an opportunity to do it even better.

Life insurance is another extra. Just $3.41 a month buys $20,000 worth of insurance. You can't beat that price anywhere!

But there's more. You'll once again be eligible for Exchange privileges. As well as knowing that time spent in the Reserve builds toward a retirement pension.

So what's the catch? You have to work one weekend a month, plus two weeks during the year on active duty. But if you think you can spare the time, you owe it to yourself to find out more. Just call or visit the Naval Reserve unit nearest you. And find out what your monthly check will be.

Dolphins capture suburban swim league championships

By GEORGE WHITEHEAD
Special Correspondent

In a final display of total swimming strength and superb team depth, the Wayne Recreation Dolphin Swim Club capped a perfect season Saturday by winning the Suburban Winter Conference league championship meet and, by virtue of the victory, captured the 1976-77 conference title.

After going unbeaten in eight regular-season meets, the Dolphins racked up a total of 932 points for its championship victory.

The five points for a first-place finish, combined with eight for dual-meet wins, gave Wayne 13 for the season. Following in order were, Crestwood (732), 9 points; Cherry Hill (608), 8 points; Lincoln Park (526), 5, and Riverview (432), 4.

The Dolphins claimed 14 individual-event first-places, three of six relay victories, 10 second-place finishes, and 18 thirds. Medals were awarded for first, second and third, while ribbons were presented for those finishing fourth, fifth and sixth.

Four Wayne swimmers captured two individual-event victories, led by Eric Head, who captured the 50-yard breaststroke and 50-yard freestyle. In the boys' 12-years-and-under category, Younger brother Keith Head also won twice in the boys' 8-under 25 breaststroke and 25-yard freestyle.

Mike Greuber was first in the boys 10-under 50-yard butterfly and 50-yard breaststroke, while Cathy Batterson won the girls' 12-under 50-yard backstroke and 100-yard Individual Medley.

Eric Head was the only Dolphin triple first-place winner as he teamed with Lori Miles, Todd Melanshek and Mary Batterson for a victory in the 200-yard medley relay.

Mary Batterson captured the girls' 12-under butterfly and was second in the 50-yard freestyle. Another sister, Tracy Batterson, won the girls' 50-yard freestyle, swam on a winning relay and was third in the 50-fly.

Jemy Beckton was the only other Dolphin to gain two first-place medals, one for the 14-under 50-yard freestyle and another for a relay. Wayne's other individual-event first-places went to Kris Whitehead, 10-under 50-yard breaststroke; Randy Ferguson, boys 12-under 50-yard backstroke, and Dana Sleicher, girls' 18-under 50-yard breaststroke.

In a devastating display of power, the Dolphins' three freestyle relay teams closed out the championship meet with victories. Miss Miles, Melanshek, Mary Batterson and Eric Head started the sweep in the 12-under mixed event, followed in the 14-under category by Gretchen Batterson, Steve Matheny, Miss Beckton and Steve Thompson, Kelly Batterson, Joe Miles, Tracey Batterson and Mike Kuhn climaxed the meet with a resounding victory in the 18-under mixed freestyle relay.

Coach Jim Lawrence, armed only with results of medal winners (first, second and third), was elated with the number of first-places the Dolphins won. But, Lawrence and Assistant Coach Dirk Johnston were ecstatic about the seconds and thirds.

"That's what wins championships," Lawrence said. "You must have firsts, but those seconds, thirds, fourths and fifths are the difference."

Claiming second-place medals were the following: two by Todd Melanshek, Doug White, Gretchen Batterson, Teri Discher, Kurt (Korky) Whitehead, Andy Balwinski, Jim Watts, Mary Batterson and Mike Kuhn.

Third-place finishers in individual events were Mary Beth Henson, Kim Tilley, Peter Campbell, Kate Greuber, Kris Whitehead, Diane Brown, Tracey Batterson, Steve Thompson, Michelle Kubiak, Randy Ferguson, Teri Discher, Karen Van Keuren, Gretchen Batterson, Rene Whitson, Lori Miles and Joe Miles.

Gaining third-place medals in relays were Julie Lutz, Sue Christenson, Tim White, Campbell, Dave Butler, Andy Balwinski, Kurt Whitehead and Mike Greuber.

Many times the Dolphins had two swimmers in the top four in an event. In the boys 12-under 50-yard freestyle, Eric Head won the event with Todd Melanshek second and Doug White fourth. In the 100-yard Individual Medley, Cherry Hill's swimmer won, but Melanshek and Whitehead tied for second, while Ferguson was third.

"This is what wins meets for you," Lawrence again pointed out. "And our kids have been swimming that way all year long."

AAU swim qualifiers

Eighteen members of the Tiger Swim Club of Belleville qualified for the Boys' State AAU Swim championships held the last week of March. Among those who competed for Coach John Stosick's team included (first row, from left) Jeff Sterling and Randy Schofield; second row are Tim Whittico, Mark Schofield, Dave Dubisky, Jeff

Tiger Swim Club looks good at AAU

Garnering 141 points, Belleville's Tiger Swim Club finished 15th in a field of 52 teams at the Boys' State AAU Championships held at Clarenceville High School.

John Stosick's team earned a fourth place medal in the 13-14 age group, 400-yard medley relay, when Chris Renton, Tim Evans, Mike Stoelton and Jeff Bullock combined for a 4:09.29.

The Tigers also placed seven in the 400-yard freestyle relay with Jeff Bullock, Bob Memering, Chris Renton and Mike Stoelton who turned in a 3:42.74 performance.

Also in that same age group, the Tiger combination of Memering, Chris Renton, Dave Dubisky and Mike Stoelton would up 10th in 8:18.4 for the 800-yard freestyle relay.

Meanwhile, Stoelton placed in five separate events. He picked up a pair of second places for his efforts in the 50-yard freestyle (23.34) and 100-yard freestyle (50.85) and finished third for the 100-yard butterfly (56.36) and also touched in seventh and 12th for the 200-yard freestyle (1:55.36) and 200-yard individual medley (2:16.39), respectively.

Chris Renton earned a 10th place for his 2:21.60 finish in the 200-yard butterfly.

In the 15-18 age group competition, the Tigers fielded the 10th best team at the meet in the 800-yard freestyle relay when Terry Caves, Jero Thomas, Ward Tomich and Howard Renton finished in 7:40.35.

In the 400-yard freestyle, Thomas, Tim Whittico, Ward Tomich and Howard Renton combined for a 3:28.47 — good for 12th place.

Renton also earned medals in the 500-yard freestyle where he finished seventh (5:01.3) and the 200-yard freestyle, 10th, where he was clocked in 1:49.9.

Don Flores was the fourth best 200-yard breaststroke in the field as he churned a 2:22.6 while he also placed seventh in the 100-yard breaststroke with a 1:03.7.

Tomich touched in fourth in the 100-yard backstroke (58.08) and was 10th for the 200-yard backstroke with a 2:09.55 performance.

rebounds in Cherry Hill's inaugural Tri-River Conference championship season. He shot 48 percent from the floor and 71 percent from the free throw line and scored in double figures 16 of the 21 games.

At this point he is well on his way of becoming the second player in the school's history to score 1,000 or more career points. The first to do so was Bob Fowler, an all-stater of two years ago.

"The thing I'm happy about is that Floyd is going to be around for the next two years," said Coach Dick McNally. "In fact, we're going to have nine of those kids off of this year's team returning."

One player McNally will miss, though, is Steward, who contributed 299 points and 228 rebounds this season. Keith's 33 points against Schafer helped the Spartans erase a 10 point halftime deficit and lift them to a 103-98 victory.

"That game turned things around for us and the rest is history," McNally noted.

A transfer student from Inkster High School, Steward has worn a Spartan uniform for the past two seasons.

"Keith typified the kind of player we had on this year's squad," McNally added. "Devoted and hard-working."

Wolverine Raceway begins harness season on April 11

Wolverine Raceway will open the longest harness meeting in its 28-year history Monday (April 11), an 85-night session that stretches through Saturday, July 16.

The big Livonia mile racing strip, located at Detroit Race Course, will again present an 8 p.m. post time, with 10 races nightly Monday through Saturday.

Predicting a banner season that will even surpass last year's best-ever nightly pari-mutuel average of $785,373, Wolverine general manager Dick Wilson has announced that eight of the track's top 10 stables of 1976 are returning once again. That leading trainer-driver list includes Tom Harmer, Shelly Goudreau, Chris Boring, Doug Ackerman, Frank O'Mara, Leroy Copeland, Don Hall and Keith Crawford.

Other drivers ready for the opening of the Wolverine barn area on April 4 included Ted Taylor, Bea and Charles Farber, Wally McIlmurray, Bill Gale, Gerry Bookmyer, Mike Novick and Gerry Banfield.

Last year Wolverine made early-season headlines with a national record 142 two minute miles during 84 nights of racing. As a result the track's official "speed rating" was dropped a full two seconds to 2:01.2 by the U.S. Trotting Association. The new speed mark makes Wolverine one of the three fastest harness tracks in North America.

Veterans Bill Connors and Charles Coon, Jr., will return as race secretary and starting judge, respectively. Ed Casey, Frank Meharg and Larry Munsell will again be in the judges' stand. Grand Circuit dates at Wolverine are scheduled for June 11-17.

Texas transfers give Romulus 'secret weapon' on diamond

Dennis Stoh desperately wants this year's baseball team at Romulus High to succeed.

And the third year Eagle skipper has a good reason: "This team had to find the money by themselves in order to play."

Because voters in the school district twice turned down school board pleas for millage increases, the board was forced to cut back on programs. And among the programs to get the ax were athletics.

So the ball players produced their own survival plan — they raised the money.

"Naturally, I'm proud of this team," Stoh said. "And, we're going to do everything to make our school and community proud of us."

Romulus floundered a year ago, winning five of 20 starts. However, Stoh feels this could be an exceptional good year for the Eagles and he says this because of a couple of unforseeable breaks.

Romulus will have the services of two brothers — Bill and Dan Suggs — transfer students from Fort Worth, Texas. Bill played on a team that was ranked among the top five in Texas a year ago.

The 6-foot, 175 pound senior, Suggs will be a welcomed addition to Stoh's pitching staff. Dan, meanwhile, will be used as a second baseman.

"Bill looks good and, along with Mike Marsiglia returning to the mound, I feel we have one of the best 1-2 pitching combinations around," Stoh said. "And, pitching is about three-fourths of a good season in high school."

Marsiglia as a sophomore a year ago won five of the six games the Eagles posted in a 6-15 season.

Suggs is slated to start today when Romulus opens the season at Ann Arbor Huron.

Stoh also has a couple of decent throwers in southpaw Kelly

Summerfield who, when not on the mound, will play left field, and sophomore right-hander Russ Ayres.

The Eagle infield has the look of experience with Dan Johnson, a third baseman who was a solid .300 hitter a year ago; Eric Moore, a holdover from last year who will handle either short or second; catcher Don McNann, a potentially explosive hitter and captain Jeff Frazee, a center-fielder.

Other assets include Junior Mike Williams and senior Wayne Osborne, both outfielders.

"With all of these players back and the addition of the Suggs brothers I'm optimistic that we'll have one of the best seasons we have ever had around here in a long time," Stoh said.

"And, though our schedule is tough — we have the Ann Arbor high schools, Ypsilanti, and Jackson teams all lined up — I'm exceptionally eager to get started."

Kennel Club holds all-breed dog show

The Livonia Kennel Club will hold an all-breed dog show and obedience trial on Sunday, April 10, at the Detroit Race Course, Schoolcraft and Middlebelt Road, in Livonia.

There are 1634 dogs entered representing 111 different breeds. Judging starts at 9:00 A.M. with Best in Show to be selected at 6:00 P.M. by Dr. Wm. Waskow of Madison, Wisc.

Adult admission is $2.00. Children under 12 and senior citizens are admitted for $1.00. For information about breed judging times telephone the show chairman, Jeanne Tunstall, 422-9106.

Westlander nabs near-record fish

Westland firefighter Bob Cox, who is credited with nabbing the biggest white bass in the state, came close to another record recently.

Cox hauled in a 2-lb, 10 oz. Crappie from Kent Lake in Livingston County and that was the second biggest fish of its species ever taken in Michigan waters.

The record for a Crappie is 4 lbs, 2 oz.

Cox, who in 1975 set a state record with his catch of a 2 lb. 11 oz. white bass in Thunder Bay near Alpena, was awarded a certificate from the Department of Natural Resources for his near-record catch of the Crappie.

The DNR awards certificates to the five top catches of every specie.

If you're a little guy who needs his own set of wheels in the very worst way.

If you're a retiree who wants to enjoy life to the hilt while on a fixed income.

If you're a young couple seeking a place to live and furnishings for your first home together.

who needs classified advertising? YOU DO, IF....

If you're a clever housewife dedicated to the proposition of providing the very best for your family for less.

you're like millions of other people in this world who have ordinary needs, wants, problems, homes and dreams! Classified is the person-to-person advertising medium which lets you communicate with other people . . . quickly, easily and inexpensively. In fact, Classified does more things for more people at lower cost than any other form of advertising! When you need Classified to buy or sell, rent or hire, fix, move, find, or just plain tell . . . it will be waiting to serve you.

Just dial 729-3300 to place your result-getting Classified Ad.

If you're a teenager who is realistic about the high cost of "doing your own thing."

EARL KEIM REALTY

Are you a BULL... or a BEAR... or a HOMEOWNER?

Bulls make money when the stock market goes up. Bears make money when the market goes down. Homeowners just enjoy living in their beautiful home while the value of their home keeps on increasing.

How many investments can you make that can double your money? The median price for an existing home was $18,740 in 1966; in February 1976 the median price for an existing home was $36,200.

Home ownership is a pretty picture.

There are of course, many more advantages to home ownership than merely making a profit. There is security, contentment, privacy, pride of ownership as well as increasing equity and important tax deductions.

HAM

Ham has come a long way! Those big brine barrels and dusky smokehouses of old have become a part of American history. Today modern plants, with modern equipment and methods are turning out ham products that are really special in variety, flavor and convenience.

Ham Terminology - Fully Cooked Ham is cooked during processing and is usually so identified on the label.

Cook-Before-Eating Ham is partially cooked during processing to a temperature that destroys organisms but further cooking is necessary for a cooked meat texture and flavor.

Styles of Ham - Bone-In-Hams have the traditional ham shape. At least part of the shank bone is present. Bone-in hams are marketed whole, in halves, in butt or shank portions and as center cut slices. The shank half is the lower half extending down the leg; the butt half is the upper leg.

Semi-Boneless Hams have only the round leg bone remaining and this ham frequently is cut into two smaller pieces.

Boneless Hams have the external and internal fat and outside skin trimmed away.

Canned Hams are fully cooked and boneless. They are weighed, sealed in the can and then cooked. A small amount of natural unflavored dry gelatin is added before sealing to absorb the natural juices as the ham cooks during processing. Upon cooling, the gelatin "sets".

Water-Added Hams have retained enough water (an essential part of the cure) after curing so that they weigh more than when they were fresh and uncured. This additional moisture or cure cannot exceed 10 percent of the fresh uncured ham's weight. This ham has an identifiably moist, juicy and tender texture and can be purchased as a bone-in, semi-boneless or boneless ham. The term "water-added" will appear on the label.
